Cat killing case continued until September

Animal protection group says abuse needs to be taken seriously

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

An animal protection group is hoping for a precedent-setting conviction in a cat killing case, which occurred in Antioch, last spring.

The court case, had a hearing last Friday, but was continued until September, according to Barbara Fronczek of the Lake County Animal Protection Association.

The charges against Eric C. Romanski and Daniel E. Brylinke, Jr., both 19 at the time the charges were filed, April 9, were for aggravated cruelty to a companion animal, 510 ILCS 70/3.02, Class A. The charges were brought by Lake County State's Attorney Michael J. Waller.

According to Fronczek, if there were to be a conviction in this case, it might be a precedent as the first aggravated animal cruelty conviction in Lake County.

The 6-month old cat was the companion of a teenage female reported to be 17 years old. It was reported that the life of the cat had allegedly been threatened by two 19-year old men.

Fronczek expressed concern about the attention paid to court cases that affect the lives and safety of animals.

"Cases are popping up all over the place and are not being addressed by the courts," she said. "Some of the prosecutors are doing a good job, but people are being freed by the judges."

Her remarks were about animal court cases in general and not the feline court case recently continued.

"Why are judges not taking these cases seriously?" she asked rhetorically. "If they're not concerned about animal welfare, they should be concerned about animal abuse that leads to human abuse."

Some studies suggest a link between animal abuse behavior by humans and other patterns of anti-social conduct. Fronczek said, "When investigators go out to investigate animal abuse, they often encounter domestic violence or other problems within the home."

Fronczek serves as a monitor of court cases for the Lake County Animal Protection Association in Gurnee. "The main purpose of our organization is to reduce overpopulation through our pet spay and neuter program."

"It is a humane society active in Lake County for 24 years with approximately 250 members." She said, "We have no shelter, but we help combat pet over-population."

Fronczek said that there is a general surplus of cats and dogs. In Lake County she estimates there are 6,000, and in Illinois there are 800,000 unwanted companion animals.

"These animals are so available for abuse that it leads to animals that can be abused in so many ways," she said.

The organization does not take a role in prosecuting animal abuse cases. "We leave it to the state's attorney to prosecute the case," she said in May.

Waterslide opens at Williams Park

By KENNETH PATCHEN

The Antioch Parks and Recreation Department has installed a new waterslide at the Williams Park pool.

One of the first people to use the slide was Winnie Sorensen, 78, a swimming instructor at the pool.

"She's one of the best swimming lesson teachers ever," said Laurie Stahl, Director of the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department. Sorensen has been teaching at the pool since it opened in 1958.

The slide opened for use Aug. 1 and lifeguards are posted to assure that swimmers do not linger under the opening of the slide above the pool water surface.

The slide features a blue stairway to a platform at the red twisting tube that drops many feet to plop a person into the pool's cool water.

"There's always a line," said Stahl. The slide is popular with

Village, volunteers, business help improve ball field

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village officials, school administrators, baseball program volunteers, and local businesses have combined efforts to create a high-quality girls softball field.

The overall seven-diamond program of improvements by Antioch Youth Baseball is in response to their growing summer baseball program and the need for higher quality playing areas.

"The single biggest thing is that a lot of people are cooperating to make this happen," said Mike Perrone, president of Antioch Youth Baseball.

He said the baseball program continues to grow in popularity and many people make contributions to make it a strong youth program for girls and boys. The most recent example is the addition of new dugouts to field two at Antioch Upper Grade School.

"What we've done at AYB in recent years is to upgrade our fields," Perrone said. "AYB paid to have the entire infield resurfaced like a major league infield," he said. Also, pop-up safety bases were installed to reduce injuries to sliding ball players.

"Our goal was to make it a top-flight, girls softball diamond," he said of the Upper Grade School field used by 5- to 18-year-old girls.

The volunteers who run AYB have received assistance and participation from many groups in their effort to upgrade the field. For example, new dugouts are to be built with the financial and building materials assistance of True Value Hardware Area residents, there will be two areas of major road repair which will likely last until the end of October.

Work is already underway on Rte. 83 on a 1.2 mile stretch of road from Grand Avenue to Petite Lake Road. The milling and resurfacing of the road is expected to be finished Oct. 30.

In the meantime, expect temporary daytime road closures.

Milling of the road means the old pavement is removed and replaced with a new blacktop surface.

Also getting under way is milling and resurfacing at Grand Avenue from Deep Lake Road to Route 45.

This project also will have temporary daytime road closures.

This project is slated to be completed by Oct. 30.

This 3.4 mile portion of road is also IDOT's responsibility.

swimmers. A sign has been posted that sets forth regulations for use of the slide. It cost approximately $5,000.

The village approved the budget to purchase a water slide in May. At that time, Stahl said the purpose was to increase the number of people coming to the pool.

The park and recreation department expected that a waterslide would help achieve that goal. It would provide new excitement for the quality of the recreation experience at Williams Park.

Village trustees approved a conceptual list of park improvements, May 6, but revisited specific projects as the Park and Recreation Department brought them forward for implementation during the budget year.

The approved park department budget total for 1997 was $60,500; a 24 percent decrease from the 1996 total of $81,100.

BALL: Volunteers improve fields

Stores, through its nationally-sponsored True Value Field of Dreams Program. Coca-Cola provided a score board, School District 34 provided a backstop, and Thelen Sand & Gravel provided some concrete.

Antioch True Value Hardware Store and the national headquarters offices donated $1,000 in lumber and hardware to complete the dugout rehabilitation project.

Laurie Stahl, Director of the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department worked with Stan Livermore of Antioch True Value Hardware to complete application forms for the Field of Dreams Program in January. The application described what was needed for the dugout and a "before" picture was submitted. "They let us know by the end of March," Stahl said.

The True Value Field of Dreams was introduced nationally last year," said Livermore. "True Value is the official hardware store of major league baseball." This local project, therefore, fits in with the overall corporation program.

Livermore expects the program to be available again next year. "We can apply again in the future." Other communities have purchased tractors to mow fields, put in sod and grass seed, or built a backstop. "It can be anything," Livermore said. Of special importance for the application is the amount of community involvement in the project, he said.

"The village will put plaques on the dugout saying 'Donated by True Value, Village of Antioch, and Thelen Sand & Gravel,'" said Stahl. Steve Thelen will work on the project and is donating the concrete used to build part of the dugouts.

The Village of Antioch has helped to coordinate the application process. The village is also donating labor and equipment to construct the dugouts, Stahl said.

There have been other key contributions which have come together to substantially upgrade its quality as a playing field. "Coca-Cola donated a scoreboard," Perrone said.

"That's the third one they donated in the last two years, and they're fantastic." It is an electronic scoreboard and will be operated from the new dugouts. "We had no scoreboards. Now we have them."

"There will be a new backstop (built) by Antioch School District 34," Perrone said. It is the school district's field and is shared by both the school physical education program and the girls softball program.

"It was very much a cooperative effort. We're very happy to get everyone involved," said Perrone.

Antioch Youth Baseball is a large summer program getting larger. "I have over 700 (people) in our program," Perrone said. He has seven ball fields, all of which have been upgraded in recent years.

"These fields have games on them every day of the week, all day long. Every night at 6 p.m. there is a game," he said.

Part of the reason for expansion, he attributes, to local area population growth. This has created a problem. "As we grow, we need more volunteers, but the volunteer base doesn't match the growth in the program."

"We do need help," Perrone said. He urged interested volunteers to call him at 838-3354 because he expects the program to continue to grow and to need adult assistance.

Angler hooks Midwest title for Chain

Fisherman wins largest tourney in Midwest

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

When it comes to fishing for large mouth and small mouth bass, Mike Brown of Wauconda knows where to find them and hook them.

Brown won the 1997 Classic Northland Bass Tournament, the biggest fishing circuit in the Midwest. The multi-state circuit includes anglers from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Indiana.

And for catching the big ones, Brown, 40, and his partner Dick Bakotic of McHenry won two fully-equipped Ranger Bass Boats, valued at $40,000 each.

The yearlong tournament requires fisherman to qualify in at least five other divisional tournaments before heading to the classic, which was held in June on the Wolf River near Winona, Wis.

Brown fishes as part of the Chain of Lakes division out of Mutiny Pub on Grass Lake near Antioch, and he is no stranger to this tournament as he won the same tournament in 1991.

"It was time we brought the championship back to the Chain," said Brown, whose victory in 1991 was the last time an angler from the Chain of Lakes division won the classic.

He added, "It's not just winning the boat. It's winning the championship and bringing it back to the Chain that means more to me," said Brown, who grew up in the Round Lake area.

To get to the classic, Brown consistently qualified by being one of the top 20 anglers in each of the five divisional tournaments. He competed against 75 to 150 different fishermen during the divisionals. In the classic, the top 120 fishermen from all over the Midwest competed.

During his climb to the classic, Brown was named "Angler of the Year" in the non-boating division. Brown also happened to qualify in the "buddy circuit."

"I chose to fish in the buddy circuit, so I could fish with my partner," Brown said.

At the classic, the fisherman with the most poundage of small and large mouth bass in three days took home the top prize. During each day, fishermen weighed up to six fish that had to be at least 14 inches long.

Anglers could fish anywhere they wanted along the Wolf River for eight hours a day. The only other stipulation was that the bait had to be artificial.

"It was just like what you see on TV with the Bass Masters," Brown noted.

For Brown, the classic came down to the last fish and weigh-in, for he claimed third place on the first day and second place on the second day before capturing first place by .08 of a pound on the final day of the tournament.

"It was down to the wire. I was the last person to weigh in," Brown said. "We should have won the tournament hands down, but we lost a couple of fish."

His winning poundage for the three days was 32.97 pounds.

Brown, who is a self-employed cement contractor, gave a lot of credit to his sponsors who helped pay for his expenses during the classic as well during the divisionals.

Sponsors included Snag Proof Lures, Lamiglass Rods, Bogerman Lures, Charlie Worms, Icon Worms, Baglys Lures and Minnow Bait.

In the meantime, Brown is already hitting his favorite fishing hole on Channel Lake near Antioch as he began competing in the divisional tournaments for next year's classic.

"It's just nice to bring this championships back to the Chain," he repeated.

As for his championship technique, Brown only shared, "I know how to find them and hook them."

The Gift Basket has t-shirts, mugs, videotapes (all three: pants, sheep, cheese), refrigerator magnets, figurines, and, of all things, air fresheners. Shirley Zlontek, one of three partners, said, "We've had 'em (read this with a great English accent) about six months. They're just starting to take off. They've been popular on the East Coast and then the West Coast." Then she adds, "of course, they've been popular in England." The shirts in the window look great. See them at 376 Lake Street. Show.

Here is more on great t-shirts in downtown Antioch store windows. Sonshine Books, Inc., 952 Main Street, shows a what, 1957 Chevrolet in front of a Texaco gas station. Maybe it's a 1956. The Lettering across the top says "Restored" and underneath has the verse at Corinthians 5:17.

The rose garden at Epifanio United-Century 21 Real Estate, 974 Main Street, is beginning to show rose blossoms. The roses look very nice, but if you pull in to smell them, there is not much of a scent at 8:54 a.m. Perhaps later in the sunny afternoon ...

It is possible to live too close to something to recognize it when you are within it. The Main Street (Route 83) of Antioch may be a good example of this. It is a rare road. The mood of Main Street extends from North Avenue south to Route 173.

Consider it a historic district and enjoy the experience of a place that most communities would love to have. Antioch's Main Street blends from homes, to public institutions (like schools, libraries, churches and government) to a traffic-stuffed business district of merchants selling, starting, closing, and maintaining their businesses. Drive or walk through slowly, early in the morning, somewhat immediately, and look at how people have decorated their homes with flowers, created displays of flowers (such as the Historic Society corner), or settled barrels of flowers along storefronts.

There are landscaped walkways between buildings, and store owners, like Janet Iler of Green Bench Antiques, who sweeps her sidewalk with an old broom-corn broom. The Main Street mood also extends west onto Lake Street a ways. Look at the half-wagon of flowers in front of the Amish Furniture Company. There are equally vivid moments on Main Street in the winter, but now is the time to experience the atmosphere of summer and Main Street Antioch. Too busy? Well, park at the north end of the High School parking lot, walk over to Main Street, and just stare at the two homes at 1090 and 1084 Main Street. They say it all.

Community service to be recognized

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Rotary Club will honor a local resident with a Community Service Award at this year's annual auction. Nominations are due by Sept. 1.

The recipient would be someone who is touching others because of commitment and concern in the community, said Matt Tabar, Rotary community service director.

"Events do well in Antioch because there are people behind the scenes who make them happen," said Tabar. Those are the community service people the award seeks to recognize and honor. He said, regardless of the event, the Lions' barbecue or Taste of Antioch, for example, there is always a good turnout and strong community support.

"Everybody is out and is well represented at community events. We want to recognize people who have done exceptional service."

Nominations are due Sept. 1 and should be sent to Matt Tabar, Community Service Chairperson, c/o Emmons School, 24226 West Beach Grove Road, Antioch, 60002.

The committee will review nominees and make a recommendation to the Executive Board of the Rotary Club. Nominees need not be a Rotarian.

"We'd like people to say why a person is deserving," said Tabar. It's the quality of what someone does, that someone else is touched by what they do, that is important.

The award will, hopefully, be a surprise when awarded on Sept. 27 at the Porkchop Dinner and Auction at St. Peters. Kevin Lyons, of Lyons-Ryan Ford Lincoln Mercury, Inc., is the chairperson of that dinner and auction event.

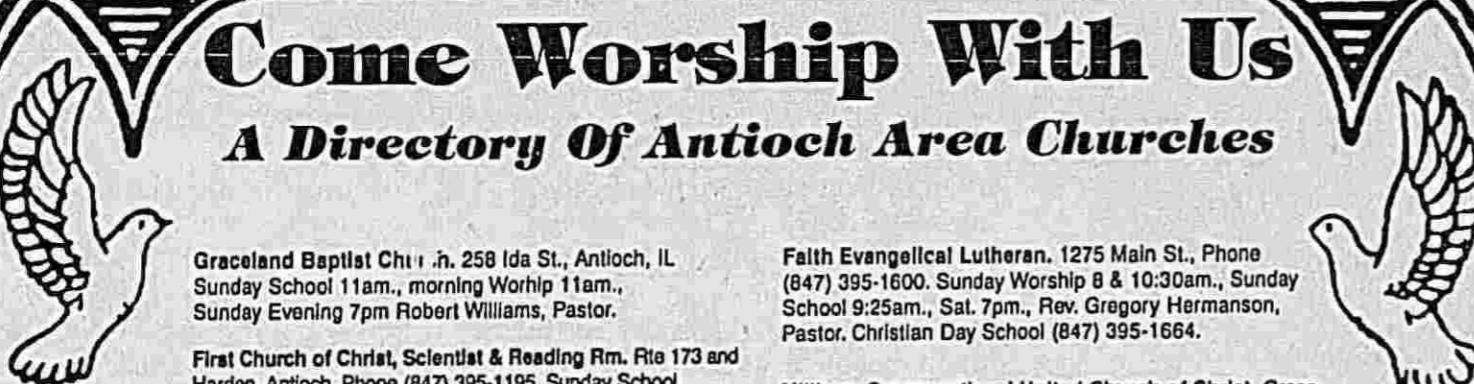

There are many people in this community who spend a great deal of time making this a better place to live, according to Tabar. "We feel that some recognition is due to those individuals or groups."

Libertyville Assistant Fire Chief charged with DUI

By JASON J. KING
Staff Reporter

A Grayslake father of three died on Thursday, July 30, from injuries he received after being struck by an alleged drunk driver.

Mark Capistrant, 43, died at Milwaukee's Froedtert Hospital after being transported by helicopter from Condell Hospital in Libertyville.

A Grayslake man, Ken E. Norton, 43, was charged with DUI and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after the truck he was driving allegedly struck Capistrant who was bicycling along Route 120, just west of Route 45. Norton serves as an assistant fire chief for the Libertyville Fire Department.

Norton, who was on a scheduled vacation at the time of the incident, told police he thought he hit something on his way home, but did not see anything, so he continued on his way home.

While pulling into his driveway, Norton said he heard sirens and decided he should go back to the scene. His wife drove him to the scene where police arrested him. Norton was not charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Illinois law requires drivers involved in a traffic accident to report it within an hour. Norton also refused a Breathalyzer test at the scene. Refusal of the test results in an automatic DUI charge.

Capistrant, an avid cyclist and volunteer coach for the Grayslake youth soccer organization, was a manager at Revel Monogram in Morton Grove. He left behind a wife, Pat, and three children, Rebecca, 15, Shawn, 12 and Tyler, 10.

Assistant State's Attorney Steve Scheller said no additional charges, such as reckless homicide, will be filed against Norton until an investigation into the incident is completed.

Grayslake Police Sergeant Matthew McCutcheon said the investigation would probably not be done for a week or so.

Norton, a 20-year employee of the village of Libertyville, will make his first appearance in court at the county courthouse in Waukegan, on Aug. 18, at 9 a.m.

ANTIOCH

DUI, speeding

Antioch Police arrested John W. Sota, 36, of Antioch, on August 4 at 1:05 a.m. traveling west bound on Route 173 west of Tiffany Road. He allegedly crossed the centerline twice and was going 47 miles per hour in a 40 m.p.h. zone in a 1991 Jeep Wrangler. Sota was provided the opportunity to take a breathalyzer test (0.23). He was released on $100 bond.

LAKE VILLA

Arrested for pedestrian influence

Cinda McConnel, 153 Milwaukee Ave., Lake Villa, and a 16-year-old Lake Villa girl, on Aug. 1, were arrested for pedestrian under the influence. Both were allegedly riding rides after Lake Villa Days was closed for the evening. Both appeared to be intoxicated when officers arrived and they refused to leave the park when told to go home. They were then arrested. The juvenile was charged on referral.

Arrested for driving offense

Kellie Cook, 24, 738 Cedar Lake Road, Lake Villa, on July 30, was arrested for driving with a suspended license. She was stopped for driving 15 mph over the speed limit and was found to have a suspended license.

Cheerleader Association awards first scholarship

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Cheerleading Association has awarded its first scholarship to Tasha Gustafson, a freshman cheerleader at Antioch Community High School.

"The scholarship is to help people who have previously been a part of the organization and are now on the ACHS cheerleading or Pom-Poms," said Janie Gandolfi, president-elect of the three-year old association.

The Antioch Cheerleading Association is 150 people who work with children from kindergarten to eighth-grade to develop and build the athletic skills needed for cheerleading. "We do basic things for kids until they get to high school," Gandolfi said. "It really is a sport. It has changed so much from what it used to be. It's become a sport instead of a sideline show." It involves stunts, cheers, and tumbling skills.

Gustafson has been involved with the organization for four years. She said, "it was a good experience. It was fun. There were good coaches. It helped me a lot for cheerleading for high school."

Gustafson said, "I like doing the stunts; I like cheering routines; I like competitions; and, I like the games." She cheers for both football and basketball games at the school. She will serve on the freshman cheerleading team.

"This is our first scholarship," Gandolfi said of the new program that she expects will continue. The award is based on the judgment of 30 member coaches. "She really deserved it. It's nice we can do this."

"Tasha has been with the (association's) program a few years. Her grades are great," said Gandolfi. "Her family is also very involved in cheerleading."

Gandolfi said participating in cheerleading can be a heavy financial obligation. Therefore, there are car washes and fundraising efforts to help people manage the costs. The cost to be a cheerleader is about $1,000 Gandolfi said. There are costs associated with cheerleading camps and clinics to learn the skills, there are uniform and other clothing costs, and there are athletic fees. The athletic fees are $150 and if a person cheers for football and basketball, it's two different athletic fees. When asked what her scholarship would pay for, Gustafson said, "We're going to use it to help pay for camp, and the cheering uniform and shoes, and also just to join."

The association has grown from 74 to 150 members in the past year. Gandolfi says they have been actively seeking participants. "We do a pretty good job (of recruitment), but the community has grown." The association is not subsidized by outside sports programs and is the only self-sufficient group in Lake County.

New operations manager hired for Antioch School Dist. 34

Life-long Antioch resident, Kevin Hauser was promoted to Operations Manager of Antioch School Dist. 34 by the Board of Education.

Prior to coming to the school district, Hauser worked for Paul Eckert Construction. After coming to the school district in November 1980, he worked his way up through the ranks as a custodian, school bus driver, tradesman, assistant in the building and grounds department and supervisor before becoming Operations Manager.

Hauser is a graduate of Antioch Township High School and has advanced training in mechanical systems and personnel management. He has a reputation for quality workmanship, knowledge and dedication.

His new responsibilities as operations manager include overseeing the District's transportation system and mechanics as well as the building and grounds personnel for the District's four schools.

NEIGHBORS

Name: Catherine Phillips

Home: The west side of Antioch on Channel Lake.

Occupation: I am a dog groomer with Antioch Groomingdales, which I own. It is almost one year since we opened. I'll wash a horse, I'll comb ferrets.

I'm originally from: Arlington Heights and then central Wisconsin

I graduated from: Portage High School, Portage, Wisconsin

My family consists of: My husband, John, my two sons David Baker and Matthew Baker (they've both graduated from Antioch Community High School).

My pets are: Three cats (Mary, Joey, and Kit), two dogs (Labradors named Jake and Cody), and a former race horse named T.J.

What I like best about my Antioch: It has a small town atmosphere but yet it is modern. People are very friendly.

What I like best about my job: The animals and people. I love working on animals. Ever since I was a small kid I've liked animals. This is the perfect job.

The secret to my success is: I love what I am doing. Hopefully it shows.

I relax by: Riding T.J. on nearby trails, and dressage.

My perfect day in Antioch would be: I like shopping. The Taste of Antioch was really good.

Last book I read: "All Creatures Great and Small" by Veterinarian James Herriot

Favorite video is: "Braveheart." I'm a Mel Gibson fan.

Favorite restaurant: DiMarco's. It's a special occasion restaurant. I like their cheese ravioli and the garlic butter.

My life's motto is: Work hard, be happy, please others.

If I won the lottery, I would: Buy a couple hundred acres of land. We'd be able to have all our animals right there.

I want to be remembered as: A cheerful person.

People who knew me in high school would say: I was shy and very quiet. I was a waitress for one year, and I learned that you have to be able to talk to people.

My pet peeve is: Bad drivers.

Most interesting person I ever met was: My husband is the most interesting person I ever met. He was a lawyer and now he's a judge. He has a very interesting job and that makes him a very interesting person.

If I had a plane ticket to anywhere, I would go to: The United Kingdom and Ireland.

If you have a "Neighbor" that you would like to see profiled in this column, call Claudia Lenart or Kevin Hanrahan at 223-8161.

Tune into radio broadcasting course

Have you ever wondered what goes on in a radio broadcasting booth? Find out in Introduction to Radio Broadcasting (GSK 054-001), a continuing education course offered by the College of Lake County in the fall. The four week class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays beginning Sept. 4 at the Technology Campus in Grayslake.

The course will be taught by Rodney Finley, who has worked for 10 years in broadcasting and is the manager of CLC's WLCL radio station. He holds a bachelor's degree in radio/television/journalism from Southern Illinois University and a master's degree from Northern Illinois University. He has held several positions, including producer and on-air talent personality for radio stations WGCI, WVON and WTMX.

During the four week class, students will learn about broadcasting regulations and how to produce newscasts, commercials and other radio productions. Students will also learn how to write news for radio, conduct interviews and obtain an FCC license.

For information, call the continuing education office at 543-2022.

Oakwood Knolls will be 'Dancin' in the Streets'

"Dancin' in the Streets" is the title of the beach party that Oakwood Knolls Property Owners Association hosts Aug. 16, from 1 to 9 p.m.

"This is our first year for a beach party," said Mike Hain of the Association. "It's our fund-raiser for the year."

Funds are raised by this party to help pay insurance costs for the operation of the beach, to maintain it, to pay utilities, and to hire a beach lifeguard. "It helps supplement our membership dues," he explained.

People from outside the subdivision are welcome to attend the party on Oakwood Drive.

There will be a disc jockey to play a mix of popular hits, food for sale, games to play, and prizes to win from local merchants. The food will consist of hot dogs, hamburgers, sweet corn, nachos, and drinks. There are kids games for younger ages, and water volleyball and tug-of-war for older children. There is bingo for anyone. "We are going to have a raffle," said Hain. The items have been donated by Antioch merchants.

The cost is $2 for adults. Children 12 and under are free.

This beach party takes the place of a pig roast and a spring fund raiser that the Association has sponsored in previous years.

Mom never told me it would be like this

Other than the obvious physical differences between children and adults it's amazing how ones personality traits and habits tend to shift as one matures. How does the DNA that you are born with as children change totally as you become an adult?

Take for instance, the whole concept behind sleep. As children we fight sleep with our every molecule. Most nap time and bed time routines include a battle resembling the Clash of the Titans.

As adults we crave sleep and take every opportunity to indulge in a little extra shut eye whether it be during the rantings of a spouse or behind the wheel of a car at a red light. Whoever invented the "snooze" button on alarm clocks: Bless you.

As children we love to run and jump and have endless amounts of sheer energy and stamina. As adults we find it necessary to sit and rest after folding the laundry. Oh sure, some of us indulge in a little extra curricular activity such as bowling and golf but we so appreciate the automatic ball returns and those golf carts.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

And exactly when did our taste buds change? Can anyone document the exact day that you woke up and said "Gee, I think I would much rather have a bowl of Shredded Wheat instead of Fruit Loops for breakfast?" Can you pin point the exact date when Spaghetti's were no longer your first choice for lunch. I look at my kids now and wonder how in the world they can stand to eat Ho Ho's, when once upon a time they were my main source of nourishment. Of course, they look at me eating my yogurt and scrunch up their faces much like I did to my mother so many eons ago.

Children hate taking baths, they never think they are dirty and how many of us get the argument "but we were in the pool all day mom." As adults even though the closest we come to being dirty is that black film left on your hands after reading the morning paper, we can't get moving in the morning unless we have our kick start shower. And if, as adults, we spend the entire day in the pool or lake, you can bet we will be in a shower before we even put dinner on the table.

Driving is another privilege that is eagerly awaited as a young teen. Whereas adults find ourselves muttering every time we enter the vehicle to chauffeur Little League players, recital bound ballerina's, and missed bus recipients.

Birthdays are another issue with a great amount of difference in acceptance. Kids think advancing one more year is the greatest thing since sliced bread. Just ask any 6 year old whose birthday is approaching and they will be quick to tell you they are 6 and 3/4's. Adults hold at 29 as long as the wrinkle don't show and then reluctantly hold at 39 until they are entitled to senior citizen discounts. Then they hold at 60 until Willard Scott wishes them Happy 100th. After some pondering on the whole situation, it appears that the only thing that children and adults do receive the same amount of pleasure from, even though its for totally different reasons, are those three little words "Let's eat out."

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

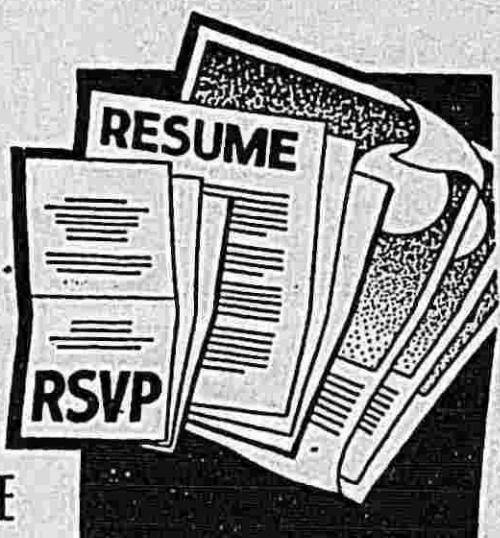

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Local summer teams go far in off-season

With the summer sports season winding down, it's nice to see that the hard work and dedication put in by some of the local baseball players is finally paying off. Libertyville and Vernon's summer baseball teams both reached far into the post-season tournaments. Libertyville won the state championship, while the Vernon American Legion team, composed mostly of past and present Stevenson players, finished as Second Division runner-up, just one game away from the state tournament.

These local athletes have relatively normal summers—most of them have summer jobs and spend time in the sun, when they can—but in addition, they are also competing for bragging rights during the school year. The high school baseball season does not begin until the spring, but the summer baseball action can act as a training camp of sorts for local ballplayers—it can show them what they have accomplished and what they need to work on for the upcoming season.

The Libertyville team finished with a 22-7 record for the summer, and Vernon posted a 22-9 mark on the warm-weather season. Vernon lost to a very tough squad from Freeport (36-8) in a close 12-10 game that ended Vernon's summer. Libertyville, coached by Jim Panther, won the championship game by a score of 13-9 and senior Mike Ward earned the MVP award.

The Mundelein Mustangs Swim Club captured their third-straight conference championship last Wednesday, at Lincolnwood Park District. The swim club is composed of swimmers ages 7-18, and practices at Mundelein High School. The 51 swimmers on the Mustangs team defeated teams from Wilmette, Zion, Franklin Park, Northbrook and Lincolnwood. The Mustangs have now won five of the last seven conference championships.

Final scores for the conference championships were: Mundelein 1,562.5; Northbrook 1,322; Zion 1,236.5; Lincolnwood 1,206.5; Franklin Park 1,203.5; and Wilmette 963.

The Second Annual Lake Zurich Triathlon will be held Sunday, August 10 at 7:00 a.m. The event includes a 1K swim, 30K bike route and a 10K run through the streets of Lake Zurich. Call 540-5069 or 604-3800 for more information.

The Round Lake Area Park District is now accepting registrations for the newly formed bantam football program. Children who are ages seven or eight prior to September 1, 1997 are eligible to participate. Any interested individuals may register at the park district community center, 814 Hart Road, Round Lake, or contact Chris Cooper at 546-8558 for more information.

Libertyville wins summer crown

Wildcats set sights on future

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The Libertyville Wildcats have one state baseball trophy locked up, but they're not done yet.

Momentum gained from going unbeaten in the summer league IHSA-BCA tournament will hopefully spill over for a well-prepared team ready to do battle in the spring wars. A 13-9 slugfest win over Carl Sandburg featuring a five-run rally in the final at bat gave LHS (22-7 for the summer) the right to celebrate at North Central College.

"This team has played together for five or six years. It is a very close-knit group. They are among the hardest workers I have ever seen," said a soon-to-be-doused-in-gatorade LHS coach Jim Panther.

The offensive explosion featured just-good-enough defense and late-inning pitching. Mike Ward, who helped give the Wildcats an early 5-1 lead in the title game, was named MVP.

"I was surprised. The best honor I had before this was the all-area team. I knew we had a great hitting team. Being one run behind, you always worry, but we had confidence," said Ward, a senior at LHS.

"Coach Pat Somers said after the first tournament game, when I did not hit well, that he had a lot of confidence in me and I would be there when the team needed me," said senior catcher Luke McKnight.

McKnight and Matt Thompson had the key hits in the 10-batter sixth inning.

"I just wanted to get my timing down. We wanted to win this for coach," said Thompson.

Sandburg had belted starter Matt Hansen out of the game in its sixth and took a 9-8 lead on five runs, six hits and two walks.

A flyball started the Libertyville sixth, and the team was two outs away from another trip back to Naperville for possibly two more games.

"I wasn't calm at all—just acted calm," said Panther.

McKnight started the rally off Sandburg's third pitcher with a long double.

After an out, Thompson came through with an RBI double, scoring pinch-runner Nick Weber.

Given new life and a 9-9 tie, LHS did not stop there. Barth Morreale, who had a tough day at third base with difficult chances made and not made, singled for a lead. Mike Ronin ripped a triple for another run, followed by singles by Ryan Liebgott and Kurt Coroneos.

Coroneos came in to end the Sandburg rally and allowed two base runners in the seventh.

Fittingly, McKnight, a highly touted catching prospect, squeezed a pop fly for the final out.

"We felt the summer was for evaluation of players," said Panther.

And with the playing of "We are the Champions" at North Central College, Libertyville began making plans for hopefully more of the same next June in Geneva.

Sequoits gear up for first fall practices

Antioch High fall athletes will soon be spending their days in single and double sessions of practices for various sports as summer vacation comes to a close.

Equipment for football players will be handed out Aug. 12 with the first day of double sessions. Equipment will be issued at 7 a.m. for the varsity; 9 a.m. for sophomores and 10 a.m. for freshmen.

Varsity and sophomores practice from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.; freshmen 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

ACHS plays at Plainfield in the season opener Aug. 29.

Girls golf: first practice Aug. 18 at Spring Valley Golf Course. Double sessions are 7-10 a.m. and 6-8:30 p.m.

Boys golf: Aug. 18 first practice at Spring Valley Golf course.

Field hockey: Aug. 18 at Polley Field. Practice sessions 7-8:30 a.m. and 6-7:30 p.m.

Girls tennis: Aug. 13 meeting in room 251 at ACHS at 6:30 p.m. Practice starts Aug. 18, time to be announced at meeting. First match is Sept. 2 home against Grant.

Boys soccer: at Polley Field, 7:45 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. Aug. 18. First match is home against Wheeling, Aug. 29.

Girls volleyball: Aug. 18 first day, freshmen meet 1-3 p.m.; grades 10, 11 and 12, 9 a.m. - 12 p.m. Aug. 19-22, 4-7 p.m. First match at Harvard Sept. 2.

ACHS lady golfers to report Aug. 18

Antioch High golf pre-season practice begins Monday, Aug. 18 with the first day of practice.

The varsity and junior varsity teams begin practice at 7 a.m. and will end about 10 a.m. at Spring Valley Golf Course in Salem, Wisconsin.

The evening session begins about 6 p.m. The course is located in Salem on Route 83 about three miles north of Antioch. In order to practice, each golfer must have a current physical exam on file along with a properly completed athletic clearance form.

"No experience is necessary to tryout for golf at ACHS this fall. Besides an outstanding varsity schedule, we have a full schedule of junior varsity meets that will be helpful for our younger golfers," said ACHS golf coach Steve Wapon.

Any girl interested in learning to play golf should attend the practice sessions. There is also a limited number of starter golf sets available for golfers to use during the season.

The golf season begins Aug. 25 when Antioch hosts Palatine and Tremper.

Wapon said anyone with questions should call ACHS at 395-1421, Ext. 246 or attend the first practice Aug. 18.

I was afraid my health plan limited my choice of physicians.

Until I learned about the doctors who are members of Health Options of Illinois.

Choice— The Health Options difference.

Choosing a doctor you can trust and feel comfortable with is an important part of caring for your family's health.

Health Options of Illinois, a physician/hospital organization that includes some of Lake County's finest doctors and Victory Memorial Hospital, offers you a choice of over 45 primary care physicians. And, should you need the care of a surgeon, obstetrician or other specialist, your choice is even greater with Health Options.

These are doctors thousands of Lake County families put their trust in every day. You can, too.

During your company's open enrollment sessions, choose a healthcare plan that includes one of the doctors listed below and Victory Memorial Hospital. (If you don't find these doctors listed in your company's health plan, talk to your benefits manager or health plan coordinator.)

Choose a Health Options physician. You'll recognize the difference.

AWGL hosts Fun Day

The Antioch Women's Golf League took to the road on Wednesday, July 23 for their annual Fun Day held at Hillmoor Country Club in Lake Geneva this year. The ladies golfed for fun and prizes without the pressure of the usual league competition. It was attended by 45 ladies and lunch was served with prizes for everyone.

There are four weeks left and the competition is tight. They will have their final golf and awards outing on Sept. 17 at Bonnie Brook in Waukegan.

Artist duplicates historical documents from Thomas Jefferson's letters to children's drawings during the Holocaust

By JEFF PATERSON
Staff Reporter

Working from her converted-barn home/studio in Ingleside, Ellen Kahn makes history several days a week.

There, with her birds, Quasi, Quill and Lebette, for company, Kahn is the sole employee of her company, Faksimile, creating exact replicas of historical documents and helping to bring events of the past alive for patrons of museums across the country.

Items she has duplicated include hand-written notes from historical figures, telegrams received by President Franklin Roosevelt, Israel's Proclamation of Independence and even the Dead Sea Scrolls.

"Museums are very close with their pieces, loaning them for only six months," she said; "and then what do you do (when they take them back)?"

"When you put an exhibition together... if you can't have the real thing, you want something to maintain the texture, a three-dimensional piece."

Kahn provides continuity to these exhibitions by making facsimile documents which museums can call their own.

"I started doing these facsimiles and the museums now have a capability to have a piece in their permanent exhibition and give back the original," she said.

Kahn's first facsimile job was in 1989 for the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation in Charlottesville, Va., replicating some of the former president's letters and drawings of Monticello.

Two hundred years ago, paper was far more expensive than it is today, and so even people like Jefferson would write on both sides. What shows through of Jefferson's 'back writing' on his notes, along with weathering and fold-lines, is also duplicated in Kahn's facsimiles.

"On the facsimiles, there is no writing on the back, so I draw everything on the front, so it's an illusion," Kahn said. "The English and the French were some of the finest paper makers; the colonies didn't have that technology. I make paper on a mold out of cotton rag and it's a very physical process."

Originally from the Midwest, Kahn lived in both Chicago and

New York before coming to Ingleside three years ago to be near her mother, Rosalind Kahn of Waukegan, and her sister, Susan Neiburger of Wildwood.

"I decided that, after a fashion, it wasn't necessary for me to be in New York for my art, because I had one job from Manhattan and the rest were from all over the country," she said.

Coming from a background in secretarial and real estate work, Kahn, now 45, went back to art school when she was 29, as one of two older adult students at Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art in New York. There she had training in many disciplines, including sculpture, photography and graphics.

While working as an architectural model maker for two years after graduation to pay the bills, she started printmaking, and now owns her own press with more than three tons of type. She got into papermaking in order to make materials for special projects and orders. It was a friend in the architectural trade, Ralph Appelbaum, who put Kahn in contact with Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation.

Since that first job, Kahn has created documents for the Virginia Historical Society, the Washington Lee Museum and Washington's Holocaust Museum.

"It's all been by word of mouth," she said of her business.

growth. "(Curators) see an exhibition and say 'who did that,' and I'm one of the few who makes facsimiles."

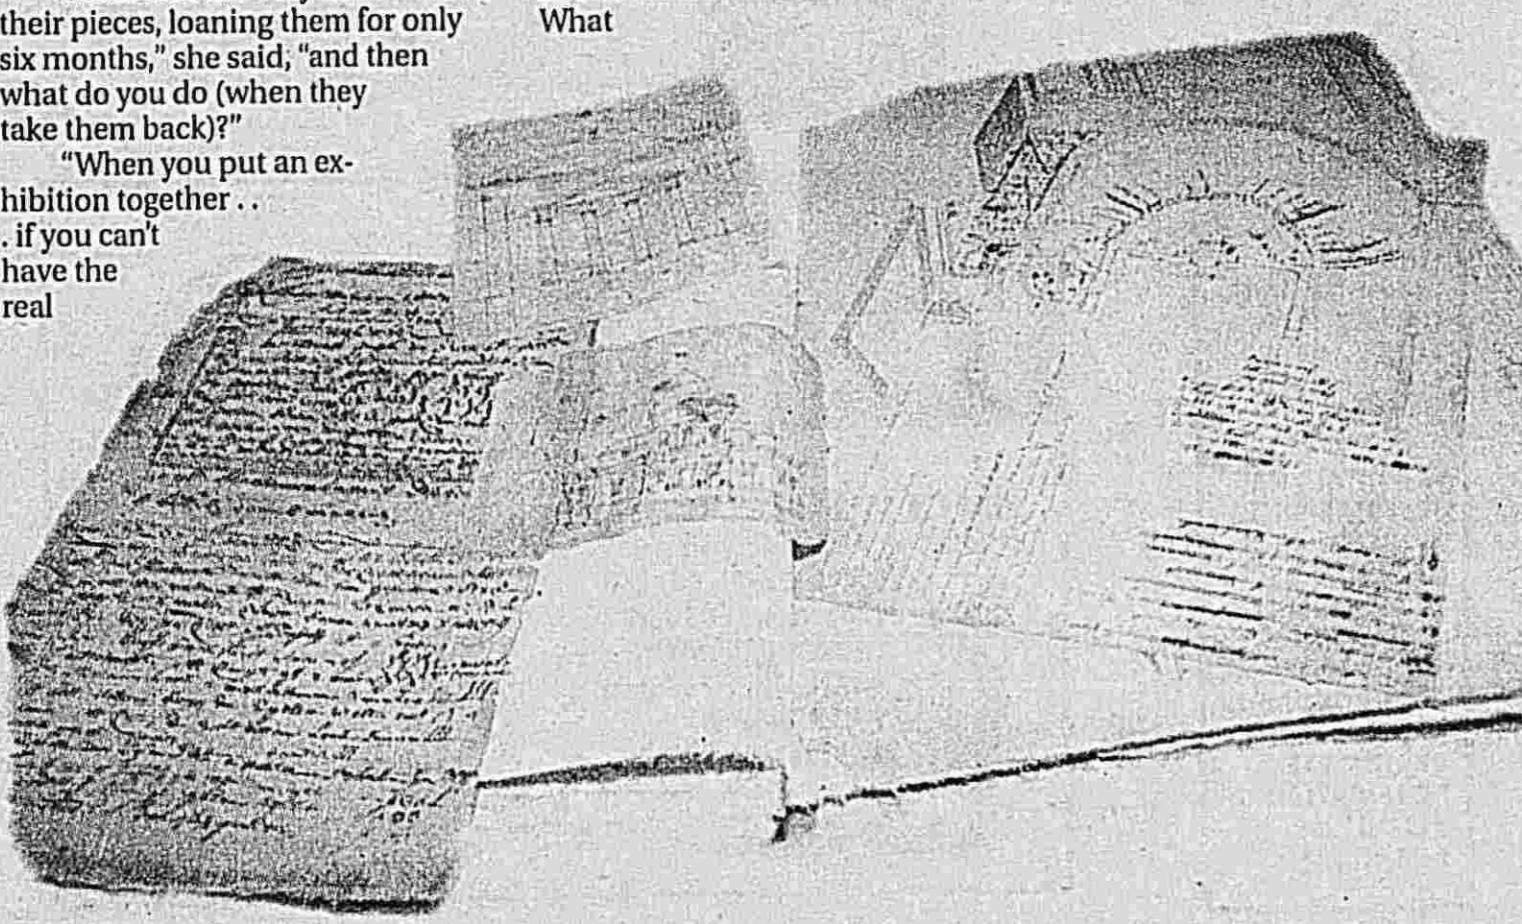

Kahn has an extensive library on the art of papermaking and so knows how to begin creating the writing material for each piece. For each specific job, she usually works from color and black and white photographs.

"I never touch the originals unless the museum decides that they want something so exact, then they fly me to their museum or to where the pieces are, and I match them with color swatches" Kahn said.

One such special job was for the Holocaust Museum in 1990. The museum sent Kahn to Prague for two weeks, so she could later make facsimiles of the watercolors and drawings made by 75 children interned at the Nazi concentration camp at Terezin in Czechoslovakia.

"It was an interesting camp, because it was the model camp that, during World War II, the Red Cross went to visit to see how the Jews were being treated," she said.

Prisoners of the camp included artists, designers from Germany's Bauhaus movement and musicians, as well as the children, who, separated from their families, drew the subjects of Kahn's work. The original pieces were hidden in milk cans and buried before being unearthed more than 30 years later.

'Right to Life' names beautiful baby contest winners

Lake County Right to Life sponsored its 13th Annual Beautiful Baby Contest during the Lake County Fair. There were 42 entries. The baby photos were center stage in the Right to Life booth. Votes for these little ones, all under age 2, were taken by volunteers at a suggested donation of $1 per vote.

The babies receiving the highest number of votes received a U.S. Savings Bond.

The first place winner was Brittany Tarpey, $100 savings bond; second place winner was Lukas Beelow, $75 savings bond; and tied for third place were Michael Krebs and Eliza Wentz, $50 savings bonds. Each baby also received a ribbon commemorating their participations. Congratulations to all!

Try modeling on

If parents think their child would be perfect for a model, Sears at Hawthorn Mall in Vernon Hills is looking for teens, male and female (ages 8 to 17 only) to model in three separate fashion shows in front of a live audience in two programs this coming August or September.

Few opportunities exist these days for teens to try on the modeling industry just for fun, or see if they are interested in pursuing it as a career. Sears is offering this opportunity to the general public and is setting a new standard by accepting models of all sizes and shapes.

Each series of fashion shows is booked on a first come, first serve basis. A registration fee is required. For more information on Sears Modeling Opportunities, call Diane Portman, Modeling Coordinator, for details at 831-2356.

Wonderland

Visit The Field Museum's Place of Wonder at 1 p.m. daily, for Story Time: Facts, Fables and Fiction. An exciting new program designed for pre-school age children, which will include a take-home story, singing, and an art activity. This free program will feature stories about dinosaurs, flowers, butterflies, cats and more. The schedule of books and activities is as follows. Aug. 11: "Cats," see many varieties, and a big surprise! Find your favorite and decorate one just like it.

Aug. 18: "Dinosaurs, Dinosaurs," learn about dinosaurs and do printing on dinosaur shapes.

Aug. 25: "Rainbow Fish," a story of sharing and friendship. Design your own special fish with its friendship scale.

Story Time: Facts, Fables and Fiction is free with general museum admission; $7 for adults, $4 for children (3 to 7), seniors and students with an ID. The Field Museum is located on Roosevelt Road at Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Summer zoo fun

Here can one visit a South American rain forest or the frozen tundra of Antarctica, or an African savanna all in one day? These exotic adventures depart daily at the Milwaukee County Zoo. For more information on the following programs, call (414) 771-3040:

Through Sept. 14—Discover how a chameleon changes color, what propels a giant squid and more by visiting Ameritech's Mechanics of Nature, a special traveling exhibit at the zoo. Interact with robots and machines that show how nature works. This interactive exhibit includes the Robot Zoo, featuring eight robotic animals created by easily recognizable machine parts.

Through Sept. 30—Visit Wisconsin Electric's Wart hog exhibit and decide beauty or beast. Stand on an observation deck and get an up-close view of these unusual and fascinating creatures.

August—The Koala Walkabout makes its debut at the zoo, giving visitors the chance to journey down under, Australia Zoo style. See koalas, exhibits for kangaroos and wallabies, and view the new barrier reef aquarium.

Kid's imagination

Imagine a place where cars are made from tin can. Where a tiny finger can change the course of a river. And a ship can sail around the world in a day. Imagine a place big enough to host a child's imagination. It's the new Chicago Children's Museum, 57,000 square feet dedicated to the curiosity and creativity of children ages 1 to 12. The museum is located at Navy Pier in Chicago. For complete details, call (312) 836-7000.

IMPRESSIONS: Artist duplicates history

Facsimiles of those works, which she also made for her own portfolio, are indeed disturbing. One watercolor in greens and blacks, shows a sailing ship approaching shore and an aircraft releasing a bomb in front of it. Several pieces prominently portray the skull-and-crossbones insignia of the Gestapo. What Kahn saw made her begin a new avenue of research for the project.

"Basically I had to start reading about abused children, because there were certain messages in all these things that jump out," she said. "I had to find out why there were so many dark lines and why everything was so depressed."

Kahn's finding was that, while many of the adult prisoners were in denial, the children were fully aware of the monstrous intentions of Hitler's "Final Solution."

"The Holocaust Museum was impressed by the drawings, which were a child's symbol of what was going on," Kahn said. "I was impressed by the collages, which were much more abstract and told me much more about what was going on in the child's mind."

"It was interesting because I've learned a lot and got a lot of answers," she added. "On each job, I learn about history, and I have to do a lot of reading because (photos of) pieces are sent to me and I'm often not given much of the historical context."

The Terezin job, consisting of 150 pieces, took three years to complete. Kahn's work has since been mixed with some of the original children's art in displays on the museum's walls.

The only real way to tell the originals from the facsimiles is to look for her embossed mark in the corner of each piece.

That embossed mark, and working only for reputable museums, are important to Kahn. Because much of her new business comes by word of mouth, and her reputation is on the line with every piece, she will not make facsimiles for private individuals because of fear those pieces could somehow be misrepresented as the originals and sold.

To date, Kahn has worked for about 15 different museums and organizations. Regardless of the historical period or the subject matter, her pieces, and time, have taught her the importance of keeping in touch with the past.

"As you get older, you realize that history is important for culture, and that culture is important for finding out why people are the way they are," she said.

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20

This week tries your patience, Aries. Try to stay calm; getting upset only will make matters worse. Ask responsible co-workers for assistance. Things are easier when it comes to your personal life. That special someone you've been interested in finally agrees to go out with you. Now's your chance to shine.

Taurus – April 21/May 21

Don't be too stubborn to accept change at work this week. A company reorganization seems to give you less chance to advance your career, but don't be fooled. Now, you have an even better chance to get ahead. Make your move. You meet an interesting person when out with friends. Don't be shy!

Gemini – May 22/June 21

It's a tough week at work for you, Gemini. However, your fast thinking solves a serious problem late in the week and wins you praise from superiors. That special someone wants to take a break. Don't get discouraged. You two just need some time apart.

Cancer – June 22/July 22

Your sense of humor during a stressful work situation wins you a higher-up's approval. This opens a lot of doors when it comes to your future. A close friend confides in you. Don't let him or her down by betraying this confidence. By keeping it to yourself, you can bring the two of you closer.

Leo – July 23/August 23

While the workweek goes by without a hitch, your personal life hits a snag. Just as you are starting to build a relationship with that special someone, loved ones need a lot of your time to handle a family problem. By explaining the situation to your significant other, you can keep the relationship going.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't be too critical of yourself when it comes to work early in the week. A serious problem that arises is not your fault, and your practicality actually saves the day by Friday. Superiors are really impressed. An old friend you haven't seen in a long time returns. Enjoy the catching up.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't let your ego get the better of you this week, Scorpio. Deep down inside, you know your abilities and limitations; don't lose sight of them. A loved one invites you on a group outing. While you aren't excited to go, you should be. There's a special surprise in store for you.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21

There are a lot of rumors spreading around your office. Don't believe everything you hear, and don't let gossip dampen your spirits. You know whom you can trust at work, so turn to those people for more information. Your personal life moves into the fast lane when you meet an old friend at a party.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20

You're on cloud nine this week, Capricorn. Everything works out for you at work. You finish an important project before deadline and catch the attention of the higher-ups. As for your love life, you meet someone who is really interested in you. Make your move!

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18

You're full of surprises early in the week, Aquarius. You come up with a bold idea at work and win a major account, which impresses your superiors. Loved ones are pleasantly surprised when you plan a get-together for the whole family.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20

Don't shy away from a commitment with a close friend just because you're afraid of being tied down. You certainly can help your friend without losing control of your life. Don't forget that, Pisces. An interesting person enters your life. Be cautious, but don't be afraid to take a chance.

THEATRE'Tartuffe' premieres

The Stage Two Theatre Company presents "Tartuffe," a new adaptation of Moliere's hilarious classic comedy about love and hypocrisy now through Aug. 23, at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays, and 3 p.m. on Sundays at the Stage Two Theatre, 410 Sheridan Rd., Highwood. Director Timothy Mooney of Lake Villa has reinvigorated the play's verse, rewriting the nearly two thousand lines of iambic pentameter that make up Tartuffe. Cost is $15 for the general public, $12 for students and senior citizens, and $10 each for groups of 8 or more. Reservations are recommended, and tickets may be reserved by calling 532-SHOW (7469).

National Cuff Link Society show set

The National Cuff Link Society will conduct its fourth annual show and sale at the Ramada Hotel O'Hare, 6600 N. Mannheim Rd. (Mannheim and Higgins Road), Rosemont.

Date and time of the show is Saturday, Aug. 16, from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday, Aug. 17, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend and admission is free. A free pair of cuff links will be given away, one pair per family.

This unique event will feature antique cuff links owned by famous people such as: General George B. McClellan, Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, President Lyndon B. Johnson, and President George Bush.

The show and sale is an activity of the National Cuff Link Society's annual convention. The society is a membership organization dedicated to the cuff link and wearer. Highlights of the show are: Thousands of pairs of cuff links for buying, selling, and swapping; exhibits of modern and antique cuff links; some up to 350 years old; free cuff link evaluations; opportunity to meet suppliers of display materials, authors of books for cuff link collectors, French cuff shirt-makers, cuff link designers and manufacturers.

A cuff link competition will be held in six categories: best antique, best modern, most unusual closure, Dealer, advertising and best cuff link story.

For further information on this show contact Eugene Klompus at, (847)816-0035.

CHECK IT OUT!'My Fair Lady'

The curtain will go up on Lerner and Lowe's magnificent musical comedy "My Fair Lady," at the PM&L Theatre, 877 Main St., Antioch, Aug. 8, 9, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m.; and Aug. 10 and 17 at 2:30 p.m. Leading all this activity are Gigi Wilding of Antioch, director; Randy Margison of Round Lake Park, musical director; Alice Byrne of Gurnee, choreographer; Aileen Biel of Antioch, stage manager; and Steve Wilding of Antioch, stage construction. Tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for students and seniors. Call 395-3055 for tickets.

'Nunsense'

"Nunsense," presented by Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre, will run through Aug. 17. The second-longest running Off-Broadway musical in history, "Nunsense" has been amusing audiences for over a decade. When Sister Julia, Child of God, prepares a tainted batch of vichyssoise, sending 54 of the 59 Little Sisters to meet their Maker, it is up to the five surviving sisters (spared by a fortuitously scheduled bingo game) to bury their dearly departed. The sisters put on a show to raise the needed funds, but not without more than a few complications.

Performances are Wednesdays at 2 and 8 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5 and 8:30 p.m.; Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m.

Tickets to all performances are $33, senior citizens and students receive a $10 discount on all Wednesday performances, and Sunday 2:30 p.m. performances. For reservations, call 634-0200.

'Dial M' auditions

The Bowen Park Theatre Company, a professional non-equity theatre located in Waukegan, will hold auditions for "Dial 'M' for Murder," on Aug. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan. The Company is seeking three men and two women between the ages of 30 to 49. To schedule an audition, or for more information, call Lynn Schornick at 360-4741.

Casting call

Auditions for the College of Lake County's fall theatre productions will be held at 7 p.m., Aug. 27 and 28 in the Performing Arts Building Experimental Theatre, room 103, on the Grayslake campus. Fall productions include a children's play "Rumpelstiltskin," which will be performed Oct. 2 to 5, and William Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," which will be presented Nov. 14, 15, 20 and 22.

Auditions are open to both CLC students and community residents ages 18 and over. Scripts for both plays are available at the circulation desk in the CLC library, and interested persons must perform a one-minute monologue during the auditions. For information, call 543-2550, or Bob Coscarelli, at 543-2623.

Theatre auditions

The Northbrook Theatre for Young Audiences is having auditions for their 1997/98 season which includes: "Winnie the Pooh," "Sleeping Beauty," and "The Land of Oz." These auditions are by appointment only, on Aug. 12 and 13, starting at 7 p.m. Prepare a comical monologue and an upbeat song; an accompanist will be provided. There is rehearsal and performance pay. Rehearsals begin Aug. 18 and are Monday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon.

Performances are on Saturdays at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. and Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. The final show runs through the end of May 1998. Both men and women are needed to fill the remaining positions. Call 291-2367 for further information.

ARTCrafters needed

Lake County's Summer Art and Craft Show will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 23 and 24. There are still spaces available. The show is all indoors and takes place at the Lake County Fairgrounds in Grayslake.

The space size for this annual event is 8x10 and include one eight-foot optional table and two chairs. The show hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. The fee is $100 per space. All spaces are considered on a first-come, first-served basis, reservations are a must. For further information, call 356-7499 or 223-1433.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Today's column concerns a question that mankind has been trying to answer for many years: How many bites does it take to reach the center of a Tootsie Roll pop?

Unfortunately, mankind never did figure it out. It took something far wiser, namely Mr. Owl, to give us the answer: thr-r-r-r-ee. Three bites. So, instead, mankind now has more time to spend on this other question: How much of our children's behavior is uniquely their own, and how much is owed to both heredity and environment?

Of course, if you want a strong opinion on the subject, you or your spouse can always ask your respective in-laws. They will be happy to inform you that any negative behavior your child exhibits cannot possibly come from their side of the family. Heavens no. And, on the other hand, they will just as happily claim credit for any of your child's talents or positive traits.

Actually, I'm guilty of the same thing. I look for talents or traits in my children that are similar to my own, so that I can claim credit for them. I just don't look for any bad ones—it's much easier to blame those on your ex-husband or your in-laws!

But sometimes, children do things or behave in ways that are completely mystifying, as far as heredity or environment factors go. So mystifying that we may ask, "Tell me again, honey, why the milkman always left that gallon of milk next to our bed?"

The reason I'm bringing this subject up is that my daughter has lately become something of a mini-Madonna in the making. And as far as I know, I am not related to Madonna in any way, although we do share the same birth date. At first I thought Sammie's behavior was just spring fever, but we are well into summer now, and she is getting worse instead of better.

She struts around the house, changing "costumes" every hour or so, striking poses, flipping back her hair and attempting to look sultry. For three and a half, she does a pretty good job. And that's just when we're alone.

The moment a male of just about any age enters our home, she really goes into action. One of her favorite victims is my 18-year-old son's friend, Paul. As soon as Paul walks in the door, she runs to him and throws her arms around his legs. Then, once he manages to extract himself from her grip, she heads to her room to change, usually returning in something "more comfortable"—a bathing suit! As she wiggles back into the room, she stops in front of Paul, strikes a pose, looks up through her eyelashes and whispers, "So? How do you like it?" Poor Paul usually turns three shades of red, and tries to humor her until I can distract her and get her interested in someone or something else for a while.

The worst part is she does not confine this behavior to just family and friends—strangers are not safe from her attentions either. Recently, Sammie had to accompany me when I took my brother to the VA hospital in North Chicago for some treatment. We were sitting in the waiting room, and she decided to strike up a conversation with an older man who was also waiting. Not only did she talk to him, she suddenly, without warning, leaned over and gave him a kiss! I was mortified! And by the time we left the hospital, she had befriended two or three other strange men in the waiting rooms as well!

I have no idea where her boldness and this seductive behavior comes from. Neither my husband's mother nor my mother were professional flirts.

As for me, the last time I tried to look seductive, my husband told me to move—I was blocking the television!

I can only hope this behavior is just a phase. You know, I used to laugh at men who were so worried about their daughter's future teenage years, that they were always threatening to buy them a chastity belt or put them in a convent once they came of age.

But that was back when I had only sons. I'm not laughing at those notions anymore. Now, with my daughter, "Sammie the Masher," I know how they feel.

I wonder if they have any convent pre-schools?

RJ's Eatery, the best in Lake County

Whether you are a first time guest, or one of RJ Eatery's many friendly regulars, their efficient and courteous staff will welcome you with the most professional service around Lake County.

RJ's, located at 1913 Grand Ave., on beautiful Sand Lake, is a 16-year-old establishment in the Lindenhurst community. Owner and founder, Robin Brankly, has created a unique concept in dining. As a long time aviator, Robin has combined his passion for flying and, his love of the restaurant business, to create a wonderful decor for all ages to enjoy.

There is seating available for up to 270 patrons. RJ's can also handle any size function. Also, on warm summer days, you can enjoy your favorite meal, cool drink and breathtaking view of Sand Lake from RJ's outside screened in back patio!

Well known for their famous pizza, which has stood the test of time for 16 years, RJ's uses only fresh, quality ingredients that are prepared by a most knowledgeable kitchen staff. RJ's also specializes in the highest quality meats, fish, seafoods, sandwiches and, one of the best "south of the border" menus, which has made RJ's what it is today!

Patrons can also enjoy the entire menu at home. Just call 356-2300 and RJ's will deliver right to your front door, with fast, courteous service on Sunday through Thursday, from 5 to 11 p.m.; Friday and Saturdays from 5 to midnight. Or, come in and pick-up your order. Pick-up service is available until 11 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and until midnight on Friday and Saturday. Call ahead and have your meal ready and hot to take home and enjoy.

Don't forget to visit RJ's lounge, which is open seven days a week. The lounge offers a TV Trivia game and half price appetizers from 10:30 p.m. to closing, all week long!

RJ's is open for lunch and dinner, seven days a week, Sunday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to midnight.

For reservations or more information about booking your next party, call Dave or Gary at (847) 356-2300.

RJ's is located two miles west of Route 45 on Grand Avenue in Lindenhurst.

Vacation photography tips for the amateur

by JIM WARREN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you're into things like f-stops, focal lengths, shutter speeds etc., this article is not for you. If, however, you prefer the "one button does all" type of camera and most of your picture taking is done on vacation, you may find the following tips helpful.

Let's start by pulling out the vacation pictures from last year's trip to Disney World. Now, put the ones you find really interesting in one pile and the boring ones in another.

I'll bet the interesting shots include things like the look of joy (or fear) on little Bobby's face the first time he saw that six foot tall Mouse. Or, maybe it's the shot of Dawn staring up in wonder at Cinderella's Castle.

Included in the boring stack are probably the view from the hotel window or various general shots of the park.

So, what's the difference between the pictures we like and those which we can't even remember why we took?

It's called a "center of interest". In other words, interesting pictures usually include a person, object, or some action, upon which the picture is based. This is not the shot of the family standing under the sign "Welcome to Disney World". The best pictures are not posed. Some sort of action also brings life to pictures.

Some minor technical advice. I've found film speed of ASA 200 to be a good choice for most vacation photos. It can also make several passes through airport security machines with no damage.

One accessory you might want to purchase is a polarized filter. Among other things, it will allow you to take pictures through windows without getting reflections.

Remember, a well planned photograph is more important than a $500 camera.

Herbs used for medicinal remedies

For over 1,000 years herbs have been used to flavor food, as important drugs, medicinal remedies and, grown for their sweet aroma. The cave dwellers discovered by eating certain herbs they could improve their health. They also used plants for their fiber to make clothing and, for their color to make dyes for their bodies and for paintings. Many herbs could be used, they discovered, to cure the ailments of their hard lives. Much ceremony and superstition accompanied herbal treatment in the past, but today scientists can analyze plants and have found a sound basis to much herbal medicine.

Herb gardens, even on a small scale, will produce more herbs than can be used in one season, so it is wise to freeze or dry the surplus. In drying, herbs lose only their moisture, retaining their scent and color. They can be then used for cooking, potpourri, or in herb teas. When the herb is coming into flower, the oil content of the plant and the source of flavor are the highest, so this is the best time to harvest them.

To dry herbs well they need a steady supply of heat and light needs to be excluded to preserve their color. Hung in very small bunches in an airy place will work. I pre-heat the oven to the lowest setting, place the herbs on cookie sheets (aluminum ones with some holes poked in work well), then I shut the oven off and the herbs usually dry well overnight. Once completely dry, remove tough stems and you can run them through a sieve to crush. Store them in air tight jars and they will keep until next summer until they can be replaced.

GARDEN JOURNAL

Herbs to be frozen should be washed and shaken free of excess moisture. They can be packed in plastic bags in amounts usually used. Parsley, sage, and rosemary usually survive the winter and can be picked fresh from the garden well into December. Herbs make excellent gifts for friends without gardens. The use of herbs in cooking is an old skill, just now being relearned, and offers endless opportunities to explore the wide variety of herbs. The best cooks are those who experiment with flair.

The following herbs are quite common and offer many uses: Comfrey is a valuable plant which has been used for over 100 years. It soothes bruises. The root contains altantoin which encourages healthy cell growth, mucilage which soothes, protein and B12. The root or leaves crushed and used as poultice will relieve inflammation and may be taken as a tea to ease interior inflammation. Comfrey ointments applied to burn, sprains, and achy limbs will provide relief.

Burdock was included in Hippocrates list of useful plants. It has been found to have antibiotic substances which aid resistance to infection and can help to cure skin complaints. It is a blood purifier and clears up skin troubles.

Chamomile is one of the most beneficial herb teas; chamomile was recommended for headaches, chills, fevers, digestive trouble, as a fomentation for swellings, for nervous conditions and as a tonic to brighten fair hair. For a pint of chamomile tea allow six flowers infuse for five to 10 minutes, if liked, add a spoon of honey to each cup.

Dandelion is one of the most valuable of all known herbs, having more uses and medicinal properties than many cultivated vegetables. The white juice from the roots and stems was used for treating warts and moles. The leaves contain vitamins, A, B, and C. They are good in salads, stimulate the appetite, and act as a mild laxative, and are also an effective diuretic. The herb is safe in any quantity. Dandelion wine is one of the best known country wines. See there are some good reasons those pesky weeds exist!

Enjoy growing and using your herbs, learn more about them, you will be surprised at all the numerous uses for them.

Until next time, peace.

Flexible space expands satisfaction of home buyers

The amount and uses of space rank among the leading concerns for '90s home buyers, according to a recent survey by Professional Builder Magazine. At Tanneron Bay in Ingleside, a lakeside townhome community, flexible space is just one of the amenities now being offered to home buyers.

Tanneron Bay, being developed on a rolling, wooded parcel of land on the shores of 100-acre, spring-fed Wooster Lake, will include a total of 86 townhomes, with Phase I prices ranging from $124,990 to $151,490. Walk-out basements are available from $13,450 to $17,450.

"Although many home buyers are looking for more space when they purchase new homes, others may desire less space but with more flexibility," said Marci Redlinger, marketing manager for Four Oaks Development Corp., the developer. "Our award-winning townhome designs at Tanneron Bay reflect the needs of this group of buyers."

The townhomes of Tanneron Bay are being purchased by professional singles and couples as well as empty-nesters who want maintenance-free living.

"Buyers who select townhomes rather than single-family homes are typically buyers who want a more streamlined lifestyle," said Redlinger. "However, townhome buyers want space for entertaining, home offices and hobbies. The homes at Tanneron Bay provide the flexible space that today's buyers desire."

Six home designs are offered at Tanneron Bay, ranging in size from 1,330 to 1,765 square feet of living space with two or three bedrooms; 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 baths; and attached two-car garages. Some of the buildings at Tanneron Bay offer walk-out basements which add approximately 600 square feet to the homes.

"Buyers may opt for third bedrooms instead of lofts, add more baths per plan and choose to have walk-out basements," said Redlinger. "All of these options allow buyers to tailor space to their needs. In addition, we offer walk-out basements with large windows which can be finished in a variety of ways."

The relationships between spaces within the home as well as the special features are also important to overall buyer satisfaction.

"Although we have homes affordable enough for first-time home buyers, the majority of our buyers are seeking luxury homes that will offer them the newest features in kitchens and baths as well as volume spaces, large designer windows and the other architectural accents of the '90s," said Redlinger. "In addition, Tanneron Bay provides the rare advantage of lakeside living in a community of exceptional natural beauty."

Wooster Lake is the focal point of the community, and every resident enjoys lake access along with the opportunity to sail, fish and relax in a paddle boat on the quiet waters. A boat launch and park with a walking path is planned for the future as a part of the Tanneron Bay community. In addition to the lake, two ponds are situated on the site. A maple grove and aspen and oak forests provide the shade and beauty of mature trees.

Located just east of the town of Fox Lake, Tanneron Bay is close to the Chain O'Lakes for those who enjoy power boating. Two Metra train stations serve the area, including the new North Central service which allows commuters to transfer to other lines and reach other suburbs as well as O'Hare International Airport.

Quality features included in the price of the townhomes are volume ceilings per plan; central air conditioning; custom-quality pre-finished doors and trim; handcrafted wood stair railings; plush wall-to-wall carpeting; no-wax vinyl floor tile; designer light fixtures; insulated patio doors and screens; kitchens with oak-faced cabinets, no-wax floor tile, laminate countertops, continuous-clean gas ranges/hoods, built-in dishwasher, disposals, single-lever faucets and double-bowl, stainless-steel sinks; and baths with cultured-marble vanity tops with integral bowls, shower enclosures with opaque-glass shower doors, and recessed medicine cabinets per plan; theatrical lighting; and powder room with pedestal sinks.

For further information on Tanneron Bay, call 740-4700.

Home buyers who desire flexibility in their townhomes are choosing Tanneron Bay on Wooster Lake in Ingleside. The scenic community offers spacious townhomes, many of which have walk-out basements. Prices start as low as $124,990.—Submitted photo

Four mistakes stencilers make

Dressers strewn with painted roses, cupboards crawling with ivy, walls bordered in ducks, diamonds or Disney—Americans spend approximately $40 million each year on stenciling products, according to the Hobby Industry Association.

Yet this popular craft can be a challenge, prone to slips and drips, smears and splotches. How can you avoid the most common stenciling errors? Here is advice from the experts at Krylon®, maker of Living Color® latex paint for home decorators.

1. Paint "bleeds" under the stencil, or the stencil slips and moves. Anchor stencil edges flat with Krylon Easy-Tack Positional Adhesive, and secure corners with masking tape.

Apply paint sparingly with a brush or stencil roller, blotting lightly on paper towels to eliminate wetness. To deepen color, use a second coat. Avoid the tendency to push the stencil across the wall. Work directly in front of the design, not from behind it.

2. Paint accumulates at stencil edges, creating ridges or roughness. Work paint from stencil edges in, rather than from the center of the stencil hole out. Stencil rollers, new from Krylon, tend to produce smoother results than brushes and distribute paint flatly and evenly, providing the perfect finish for Americana and folk-art stenciling.

3. Colors in repeating patterns don't match. Always apply light colors before moving on to deeper shades. Use fast-drying paint, like latex Living Color, which is now in small cans and aerosol spray. There's minimal waiting between applications and easy water cleanup. Carefully clean brushes and rollers between applications, or choose a stencil roller with replaceable foam.

4. Stencil colors "fight" your room—they're not what you expected. Before committing to a particular design, do a "test" pattern on a piece of paper or cardboard, and tack the design in place. Are the colors right for both day and night lighting? Is there enough color contrast in your design, or do colors optically merge?

Now you're the stenciling expert and ready to proceed. At low cost, "haute" decor is yours.

Keep decks looking great during dog days of summer

With the onslaught of powerful summer storms and scorching days upon us, don't neglect the one thing that's always hanging around out back—your deck!

"Now is the perfect time to seal your deck because of the summer's harshest weather conditions," said Gurnee Home Depot Sales Associate Jim Clancy. "But it's also a great time to prepare your deck for fall and winter, which unbelievably, are right around the corner."

The first step in sealing your deck is to make sure your deck is in the best possible shape. Year-round extreme weather conditions in the Chicago region can wreak havoc on decks, drying out the wood and making it susceptible to water retention and rot.

"While a weathered deck can be restored to its original wood color with a deck brightening solution, you should replace loose nails with corrosion-resistant deck screws," said Clancy. "You'll also want to smooth splintered boards before you apply a preservative."

For a sturdier deck, drive the new screws into the joists to secure any loose decking. Use an orbital sander to smooth out any rough areas before applying finish to decking boards, railing or stairs. Make sure to vacuum the deck to get rid of any loose sawdust.

After the preparation work is complete, you are ready to begin sealing your deck. Apply a staining sealer to all wood, preferably using a pressure sprayer, followed by a paint brush to smooth out drip runs. Porous wood may require another coat of staining for even coverage.

Mix the deck-brightening solution as directed by the manufacturer. Apply the solution with a pressure sprayer and let set for 10 minutes. Scrub the deck thoroughly with a stiff scrub brush. Rinse deck, and if necessary, apply a second coat of brightener to extremely dirty or stained areas. Rinse and let dry. Apply a fresh coat sealer or stain. Avoid staining in direct sunlight, or if rain is forecast for the day.

"While repairing and sealing a deck might sound like a huge project, it can be done," said Clancy. "Just take it one step at a time, and before you know it, your deck will look just like new." The Gurnee Home Depot is located at 6625 Grand Ave., Gurnee.

Prevention, not apple, keeps doctors away

By GLORIA DAVIS
Staff Reporter

There are two new doctors in Mundelein and one of their goals is to keep you out of their office.

Dr. Bruce Hyman and Dr. Howard Baker have just opened a private practice in the Condell Medical Bldg., 560 N. Midlothian Rd., in Mundelein.

While specializing in comprehensive health care for teens and adults, they offer a preventive care wellness program to help patients stay healthy and stop illness before it can take hold.

Dr. Hyman specializes in sports medicine, a cutting edge medical field brought into prominence by this generation's dedication to physical fitness and participation in athletics.

With our senior citizens living longer, the care of the elderly is in greater demand than ever. Dr. Baker specializes in geriatrics.

On the subject of the latest in modern medicine, the knowledge and treatment of women's health problems, weight loss and tobacco cessation, is also available at Suburban Internal Medicine. Just make an appointment and Dr. Hyman or Dr. Baker will give you the benefit of their medical expertise.

Both doctors completed their internship and residency at Rush Presbyterian - St. Luke's in Chicago. They are both board certified in internal medicine.

The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Early morning, evening and Saturday appointments are available. Call 837-8440.

Bionic ear approved

A new bionic ear is now available in the United States to treat the more than one-in-one-thousand children who are born deaf. The Clarion cochlear implant is a clinically proven treatment for profound deafness in children.

In a recent U.S. pediatric clinical study, the majority of deaf children used speech to communicate and recognize sounds following implantation. Children derive significant benefit from Clarion compared to conventional hearing aids and earlier-generation cochlear implants.

Developed by Advanced Bionics Corp., Clarion used proprietary, microcomputer technology to provide four times more auditory information than previous generation devices. It is a surgically implanted auditory prosthesis, and not a hearing aid. Hearing aids simply amplify sound. Clarion bypasses damaged parts as the inner ear by sending electrical "sound" signals directly to the auditory nerve.

Like normal hearing, the auditory nerve carries these signals directly to the brain where they are interpreted as sound.

Clarion is the only multichannel cochlear implant manufactured in the United States.

Surgeons and audiologists at Children's Memorial Medical Center and local residents participated in the clinical trial of the Clarion Cochlear Implant in children.

To find out more about the bionic ear, call Julie Pesch at Children's Memorial Medical Center at (773)880-4500 or Patrice Heck at Advanced Bionics at (888)261-1961.

'Romance Through the Decades'

"A Grand Raffle will be the new Benefit Gala event on Saturday evening, Oct. 4 at Twin Orchard Country Club in Long Grove," announced Dr. Ira Piel and his wife Nancy, chairpersons for Benefit Gala 6 hosted by Unit IV of the Auxiliary of Condell Medical Center.

"Two round-trip tickets to Australia that will go to a lucky winner as a gift from Qantas Airways, Ltd., a one-week vacation for two with air transportation to either Cancun or Puerto Vallarta will be awarded courtesy of Resort Reservations, and two round trip tickets to Hawaii, which my husband and I are donating personally," said Nancy Piel.

"Another top prize is a must-have Sports Package including tickets to the Chicago Bulls, Blackhawks, and Bears games. We're also raffling a great golf package for four at Eagle Ridge Inn and Resort, Galena, Ill."

In addition to the travel packages, a prize dining package to a number of delicious restaurants will be awarded.

Raffle tickets are available for $24 each or five for $100 at the Gift Corner in Condell's main lobby, the Centre Club Sports Shoppe, or through the Medical Center's Consumer Services Dept., 362-2905, ext. 5540.

The benefit will raise funds to support Cardiology Services and the new Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville. The laboratory opened on June 11, 1996 and tested its 500th patient on June 23, 1997. It is anticipated that over 550 patients will be

LaCASA needs dedicated volunteers

Without proper support and guidance, rape victims and other sexual assault survivors may suffer further traumatization and indignities during medical examinations and police questioning.

The Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault is currently accepting applications from area residents interested in training to serve as a Medical and Police Advocate to respond to Lake County hospitals and police departments when a sexual assault survivor is present. LaCASA volunteer advocates provide crucial support, crisis intervention and information on-site and during follow-up to the survivor and their loved ones.

Applications will be accepted through Sept. 5 for LaCASA's 60-hour volunteer training, which begins Sept. 22 at the new LaCASA/Richard Zacharias Center located at 4275 Grand Ave. in Gurnee. Classes are on Monday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 10 p.m., with two Saturday classes in October.

LaCASA also needs volunteers to work with their 24-hour Hotline Advocacy, Court Advocacy, and Child Assault Prevention programs. No experience is necessary, but a deep desire to help those in need is crucial.

For information or to apply to be a LaCASA medical and police advocate volunteer, call Cindy Ringer-Findlay LaCASA's Crisis Intervention Advocate at 244-1187.

Parents dread school year woes!

Dear Dr. Singer, School is fast approaching and we have had an ongoing problem with our child that we dread facing again. We feel that our child simply doesn't enjoy school or the process of learning. It is like pulling teeth to get that child to work on anything and it is usually within the first few weeks that grades fall down the tubes. Can you give us any insight here on how to get this to change? S.T.

Dear S.T.,

I have a few suggestions, first of which would be to get this child tested. It's good to have a roadmap of the obstacles if they actually exist and if they don't, that knowledge is good to have as well! At least then, you can rule out any cognitive or processing issue and proceed full force without guilt. As you may or may not know, I run a program that deals with this very thing and I've made some interesting observations.

First let me say that I do believe that there are real learning obstacles that get in the way for SOME kids. People who have read my columns before know that through the popular press, I believe that many kids are getting too savvy at diagnosing their own problems for the purpose of getting out of the responsibility they feel. I think this is a very important thing to get past. I think that if you have hard data in the form of testing, you either rule out or confirm and treat, but my feeling is, we need to stop playing the middle ground between these two options.

Another thing I've noticed in the scope of my learning program is what I will call a re-definition of hard work. After they have received a bad grade, I have asked a lot of kids how long they actually looked at the material prior to taking the test. The answers have stunned and amazed me. I have heard kids tell me that they have sat down for 15 minutes and seriously expected an "A" and were surprised when they received an "F." When I have suggested taking a small amount of extra time each night on each subject plus two hours the night before an exam, I am looked at as though I come from another planet. I have seen this look from parents as well. I don't know what changed, when, but I do know that school work is just that...work! It's not meant to be fun. It's not meant to be entertaining, although to some it is and that's great. To the great majority of people, it is a rite of passage or a stepping stone to future privileges. It scares me that I am seeing such a large amount of people who prefer to make excuses for why a child can't, instead of helping that child to get to "I can."

We all have our own obstacles. Some of us can't see well. Some of us can't hear well. Some of us are slower learners than others, but that isn't a reason to give up the game! It's a reason to become challenged and to move beyond what we think we can. I have seen this thought instilled in kids and with the ones I've met, they always follow suit!

I remember one of the most powerful sights I ever saw was when I was working on my undergraduate degree at U of I in Champaign. I was working and had too many classes and felt overloaded and was always complaining about that. I figured I'd be lucky to get C's. One day, on my way to work, I saw a young man with an arm full of books walking down the street. So, you might ask, what is the big deal about that? Many people walk down the street on a college campus with books in their arms. This man also had a walking stick and was completely blind, yet he was at a university that demanded tremendous academic performance, both past and future. All of a sudden, my problems didn't seem so insurmountable.

PARENT'S PLACE

*Sherri Singer,

Now, many kids have obstacles of their own. Maybe some have ADD and some have LD and some are behavior disordered, but it doesn't make them incompetent human beings. These problems simply need to be addressed and life gotten on with.

Be careful with your child's dislike for school. Don't fall into the failure trap. You are allowed to expect effort from your child. You are allowed to teach your child the way to find success through hard work and putting off immediate gratification. Academics are behavior related like many other behaviors. Asking your child to like school may be stretching it, but requiring your child to meet certain standards isn't. As I said above, have the child tested first to be sure of what that roadmap looks like that we discussed earlier and then once you find out or rule out problems, either way, get it treated and help your child move on.

Getting kids to like learning can be done through challenge and success. You can find out what topics interest your child and help the child find out about those topics.

Set up a contrived situation in which you help your child read about a topic and ask the child about it, complimenting correct answers. Outline for the child that this is really no different than school. The only difference is that in school the child doesn't necessarily like all the topics, but can still do well if enough time is spent or the correct help is gotten. During school, maybe make school a contest for him or her. After the child has been tested and treated if necessary, make sure that privileges, rewards and freedom are tied into the child's effort. Effort, meaning time put in, not grades! Grades will come naturally with time put in. Share with your child your definition of the minimum amount of time that is acceptable to you. Of course, be reasonable! 12 hours is not reasonable!

I think we really need to help our kids get back to the understanding that success is not a matter of luck or being someone else who doesn't have our problems. It's a matter of striving in the face of obstacles. It's a matter of giving it all you've got and more to get the job done because you are proud of that. I've worked with enough kids in this learning program to know that many of them don't really have a concept of what hard work or finishing something completely is!

Once they're taught and expectations are set, they prove to be more than capable and really feel pride when doing it.

There is plenty of room for nurture and pride with our children. You don't need to be a drill sergeant, but you do need to have faith in your child and help your child have faith in him or herself! Tell your child that you know he or she can do it! And then teach and guide!

Practice fields soon to be filled with chirping whistles

Within the next few weeks, many area residents who live next to high school practice fields will not be waking up to the sounds of chirping birds, but to that of chirping coach's whistles. That's right, all you athletes and former jocks, "Hell Week" is near. Ah, the feel of the dewy grass in the morning, calisthenics to stretch out those tight muscles, taped-up ankles, knees, and wrists, never ending drills. Don't forget the wind sprints at the end of practice, in 90 degree heat with a humidity level of 110 percent. Yeah, those were the days.

Unfortunately, to some, a sprained ankle, knee, wrist or foot could keep a student athlete out for a couple of weeks of practice, which could possibly prevent him/her from winning that starting position. The traditional taping and modalities used to treat such injuries are excellent; however, the body must do it's own healing, which takes time. Although, there is a way to speed up this recovery process.

Dr. John N. Bouma, of the Premier Chiropractic Center in Grayslake, has developed a protocol for treating such plaguing injuries, which will reduce the recovery time in half, stabilize the affected joint and, prevent further injuries. Dr. Bouma states, "When an athlete sprains the ankle, there has been some damage done within the joint. One or several of the seven bones that make up the ankle joint was/were moved very quickly in a direction that the joint was not specifically designed to perform. This split second action causes stretch or torn ligaments/tissues, inflammation, pain, and a misaligned anklebone. The conventional treatment for these injuries is RICE, which stands for, Rest, Ice, Compression, and Elevation. This is an excellent procedure to decrease the swelling and pain. Although, this process may take up to seven to 10 days to decrease the swelling and pain before the athlete can even put any weight on the ankle."

Dr. Bouma has been trained in Sports Injury Prevention and Injury Rehabilitation by the Univ. of Wisconsin-Platteville's Head Athletic Trainer, who assists the Chicago Bears during summer camp, and by several trainers and rehabilitation specialists at Palmer College of Chiropractic. In most cases a second degree ankle sprain can keep an athlete out of competition for up to four to six weeks, with conventional treatment.

If the doctor was able to see/treat the athlete immediately following or the day after the game/incident, this same ankle could be back to playing status within two and one-half weeks, with aggressive treatment.

Don't let acute/chronic sports' injuries ruin your season. For questions regarding treatment or alternatives, call the Premier Chiropractic Center at 543-1055 and speak with Dr. John Bouma directly.

A Nutrition Research Study at Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center

Diet Modification and Breast Cancer: The Women's Intervention Nutrition Study (WINS) is recruiting 2,500 women to participate.

You may be eligible if you:

- Are age 48 to 78
- Had surgery for localized invasive breast cancer in the past year
- Take Tamoxifen (Nolvadex) or treated with chemotherapy or both

The National Cancer Institute and the American Health Foundation are sponsors of the WINS study at cancer centers nationwide. This study will investigate whether or not changing what you eat plays a role in breast cancer recurrence.

It's free to join.

All women who qualify to participate will have their current diet analyzed by a nutritionist and will be randomly assigned to one of two diet groups. If you would like to find out whether or not you qualify for the study, please speak to your doctor or call Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center at 1-800-268-0786.

Forth's season ends in Australia

Antioch's gridiron standout finishes high school football career, looks toward college

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Brian Forth traveled to Australia in search of some stiff international competition. Unfortunately, he did not find that down under. But, on the return trip, the Illinois football team stopped in Hawaii and played a very close, competitive game against a team from Oregon, which provided closure to his high school career. Now he is looking to the start of his college football career in Wisconsin after an international summer football tour.

A four-year defensive back for the ACHS football team, Forth spent nine days this summer in Australia as part of the Illinois team participating in the Down Under Bowl.

"This is the second year Illinois has had a team" at the Down Under Bowl Series, Forth explained. "I was nominated by the Illinois State head coach for International Sports Specialists (ISS), Inc." They are the sponsors of the summer tour "designed to promote American football in Australia and New Zealand," Forth said.

This is the ninth year of the ISS summer tour for senior football players. It is an opportunity to promote the game and to let players experience a different culture.

In mid-August, Forth leaves for his first year at the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater. He will major in business, possibly with an emphasis on marketing.

"It's something that I like," he says. "I have a knack for (marketing)."

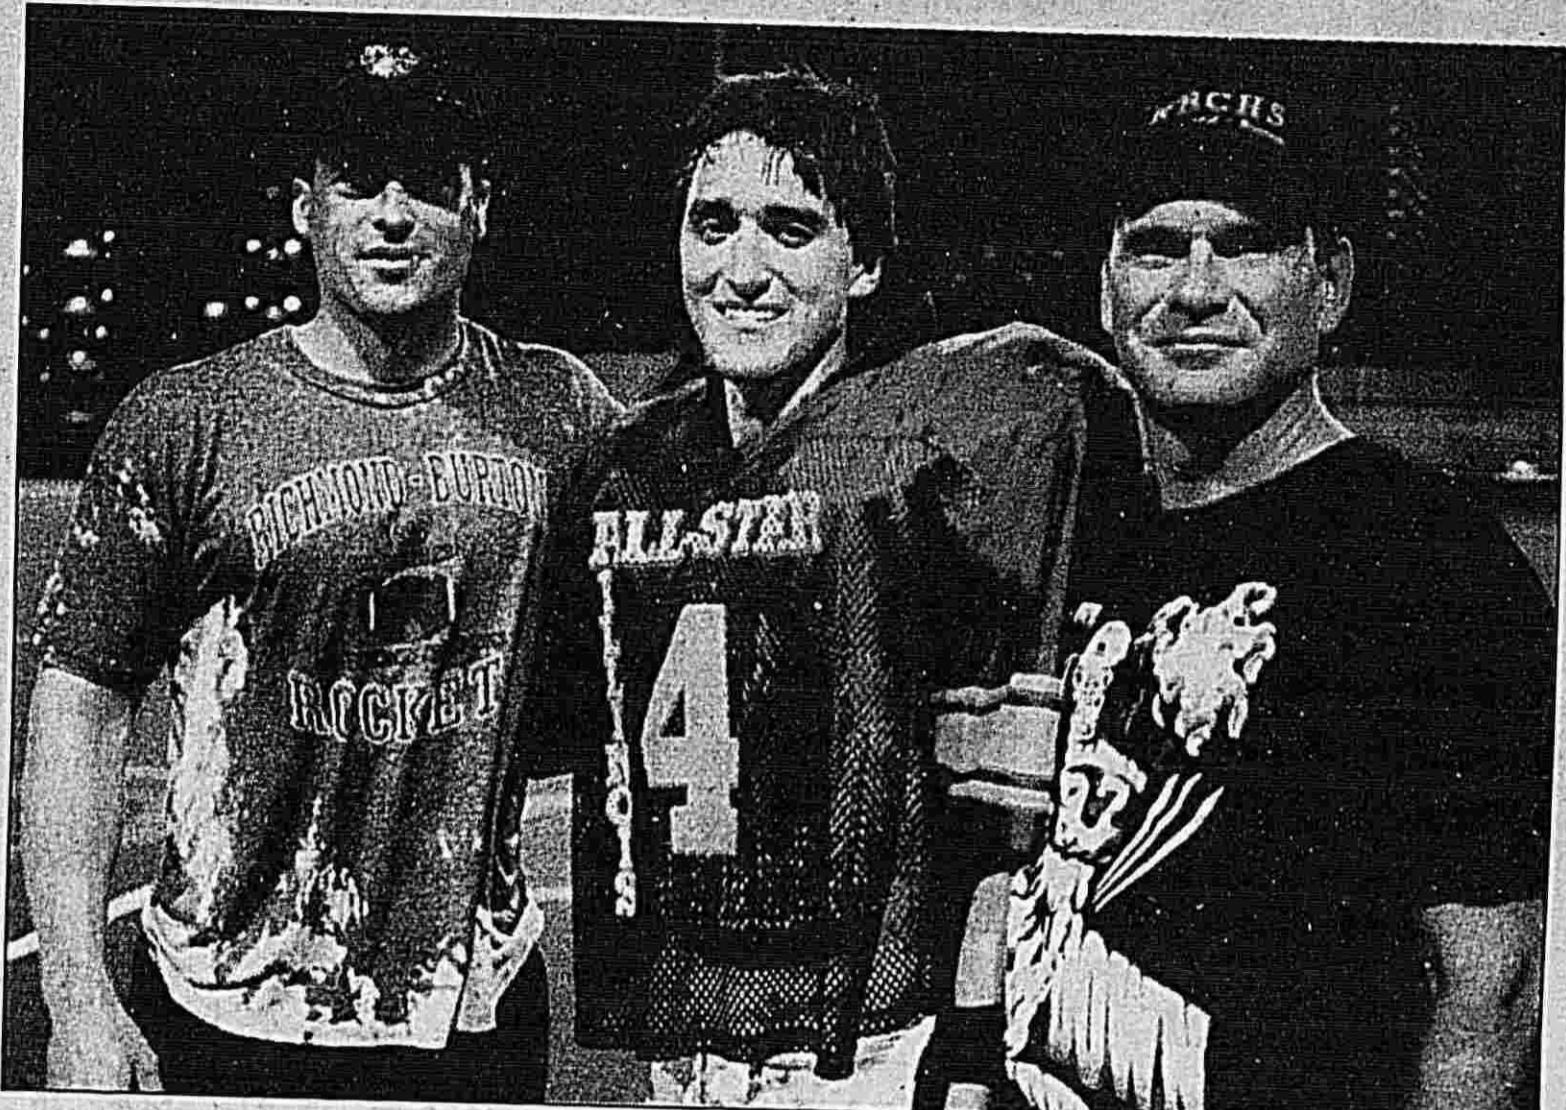

The Australian football tour to play football in Australia also gave him one more chance to play as a high school football player after a winning season that ended in October when ACHS did not make the playoffs.

"I felt like a little was added to my season," Forth said. "I finished off some things for my high school football career. It allowed me that one last chance to play as a high school player." And, win two more games.

"(Australia) was the first time I've ever visited a foreign country," Forth said. He thinks the experience was well worth it and urges others to raise the money and do it "if you have the chance." His opportunity was made possible from fund-raising activities he undertook. He sold raffle tickets, sold sports memorabilia from ISS, and he obtained direct donations from local businesses.

"I would like to thank everyone who helped me accomplish the goal of being able to go," he said. "It was really worth it."

Forth said that although the team was made up of players from a number of different schools, all the players meshed well as a team.

"We practiced every day," Forth said. "We came together very quickly" as a team.

"Most players were from the Chicago area," plus some players from downstate Illinois. There were 20 players, 14 cheerleaders, as well as parents and supporters who traveled to the island continent. The cheerleaders were an active part of the group, according to Forth. "They performed at games we played as well as (did some) local performances." The cheerleaders were also post-season all-stars.

The Illinois team faced an Australian team that had players from age 18-30. In that country, football is more a club sport than an organized system of entertainment and finance. He thinks the Australian teams had good hitters and athletes, but the score was 64-6 in three-quarters of play. "With the caliber of players we had, we had the physical edge," said Forth.

The trip was not just about football, though, as Forth and his Illinois teammates were able to experience Australia.

There was an opportunity to do some sightseeing while they were in Sydney. For Forth, "it was a lot like the United States," he said, "the people were very nice." He came away with the impression that it was a very interesting country. There were some trips into the Australian countryside. "The small part of it that we did see was outstanding," he recalls.

The Illinois team made a 3-day stop in Honolulu to play a team from Oregon to round-out the trip.

Because of the International dateline, We arrived in Honolulu before we left Sydney," Forth recalls. The game with Oregon was a part of the tour and another Illinois team won 10-6. "It was the most intense game I've ever been involved in," said Forth.

Small American companies are the target of banking rip-off

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

A scam operated out of Nigeria has found its way into Lake County.

Business owners Jean-Jacques and Chantal Majon of Round Lake have been solicited twice by Nigerian business people. In this scam, they ask small American companies to provide a bank account in which to transfer money from undeclared windfalls from the sale of crude oil during the Gulf War. In exchange for depositing the money, the American company is supposed to receive 20 percent of the amount deposited.

Lakeland Newspaper humorist columnist Donna Abear wrote about the scam in her column of July 31 in which her husband, Brandon Abear, a small business owner, was solicited. In his letter, Abear was asked to deposit $28,700 in exchange for receiving $5,740.

Chantal Majon contacted the

He had heard of the scam but was very surprised to find out they were targeting businesses in the Lake County area.'

Majon Chantal

The Majons were curious about the letter, but not curious enough to respond. Instead Chantal called their bank, First State Bank of Round Lake where their banker set the record straight.

"He had heard of the scam but was very surprised to find out they were targeting businesses in the Lake County area," Majon said. The bank was able to provide background information to the Majons which indicated the scam has been going on since 1994.

"According to the information we received from the bank, the Secret Service is involved in investigating this scam. Some individuals have been asked to go to Nigeria to collect money and have lost their lives," Majon said.

"The bank said the group likes to zero in on small companies for their donations," Majon said.

Both the letters received by Majon and Abear have come from Lagos, Nigeria. The Abear letter was signed by an Engr. Adebayo Williams. The Majon letter was signed by Al Haji Bayero.

Banking officials advise anyone receiving such a letter to contact police authorities.

"This scam has been around since the early '80s, what people should remember if it sounds too good to be true it probably is," said Roger Manderscheid of State Bank of the Lakes. "People should be especially leery of investment offering an 18 percent return especially when it comes from a foreign country where they can not verify the source."

Bond refunding yields savings

Lake County taxpayers will save more than $676,000 in interest payments through advance refunding of general obligation bonds following action taken by Lake County Forest Preserve officials. The net present value of the savings is over $555,000.

As a result of low interest rates, the Forest Preserve issued general obligation refunding bonds to refinance the remaining $10 million portion of the original $84 million Series 1989 general obligation bonds. The new Series 1997 bonds will be refunded at an average interest rate of 5.0 percent, lower than the current 6.0 percent rate for the bonds. This will save Lake County taxpayers $676,000 over the next 12 years. Refinancing of the remaining bonds would result in a savings of approximately 60 cents on a $100,000 home.

Previous action taken by the Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners gave authority to Forest Preserve President Robert M. Buhai, Treasurer Carol J. Calabresa, and Audrey Nixon, Chair of the Finance and Administrative Committee, to move quickly to lock-in the lower interest rates and maximize the savings.

Nationally recognized authorities in the field of park and recreation management chose the finalists and will name the Grand Award Winner at the NRPA Congress in Salt Lake City, Utah in October.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Ratfelders seeks county board slot

Gurnee—Gurnee trustee Mark Ratfelders believes his calling in public life is to serve all of Warren Township as a Lake County Board member.

Ratfelders plans to challenge Al Westerman for the Republican nomination to the Lake County board next March.

"I truly believe the quality of life should be of utmost importance. Not just looking at it from a district standpoint, but on all the issues. I believe I can bring a broad perspective with an eye to fiscal responsibility, which has the biggest impact on the quality of life," Ratfelders said.

Ratfelders is a six-year Gurnee Village Board member. He considered an independent county board bid in 1995 after Westerman beat Robert Depke, but did not continue it. Westerman was unopposed by Democrats in a November election.

"I expect a couple of opponents. It will be a lot like last time. It will be run on a shoestring budget and there will be a lot of door knocking," Westerman, of Waukegan, said.

Residents upset with violence

Round Lake Park—Three women attended the village board meeting to see what the police department was doing toward solving two incidents of alleged fire bombing.

The incident occurred on July 23 and July 30. Both had homes started on fire and shot at. Police Chief Bruce Johnson said the families have had juveniles who were arrested by police and had a known gang affiliation.

They wanted to know what police were doing. Sandy Grainger alleged an officer knew her house was targeted. Johnson said he interviewed the officer and the officer denied he had prior knowledge of the incident. Police are still investigating both occurrences.

Fox Lake townhall meeting set

Fox Lake—Making good on a promise made during this spring's municipal campaign, the slate of Mayor Jim Pappas has set the date for an agenda-setting first townhall meeting.

The townhall meeting will be held on Sept. 4, at 7 p.m. at Grant Community High School.

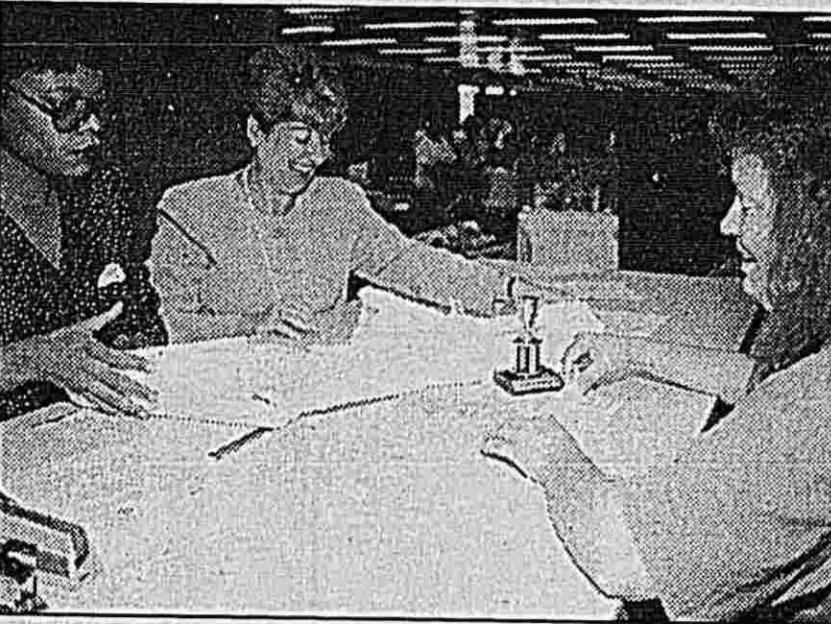

"We'll be asking them (residents) 'what we want to be when we grow up' as a town...to decide if we are going to again be one of the premiere resort towns in the Midwest," Pappas said. "That meeting is going to be the kick-off of the process of creating the comprehensive master plan."

Island Lake woman wins

Wauconda—Jennifer Senne, 18, of Island Lake, was crowned Miss Wauconda 1997 at the 32nd Annual pageant. Senne, a graduate of Carmel High School, defeated four other contestants at the pageant, held at the Concorde Banquets in Kildeer Aug. 1.

"I am most proud to represent Wauconda," Senne said. "Wauconda is a great town. There are many wonderful people that live in it."

Senne will represent Wauconda throughout the next year at municipal and county events, and at the 1998 Lake County Fair Pageant next July.

4 million down, 4 million to go

Lisa Celmar, of Lake Zurich, a legal secretary for the Waukegan firm of Decker and Linn, is surprised to deliver the four millionth document processed by the Lake County Recorder of Deeds Office. Upon seeing several photographers waiting to take her photo, she said, "I thought you were waiting for someone, someone, like, important."—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

Triathletes set to compete

Lake Zurich—The Second Annual Lake Zurich Triathlon will be held Sunday, Aug. 10, starting at 7 a.m. at Paulus Park, 400 Whitney Rd., located off Route 12 north of Route 22. Competitors will swim 1 K across Lake Zurich to Breezewood Park and continue with a 30 K bicycle ride and 10 K run on the streets of Lake Zurich, Hawthorn Woods and Ela Township, finishing at Paulus Park.

Racers can sign-up the day of the event or in advance at the Lake Zurich Recreation Department, located in the Barn in Paulus Park, by paying the $40 registration fee. A maximum of 400 athletes will be allowed to compete.

Award plaques will be awarded to the top overall male and female athlete, to the top three male and female finishers in each age group, and to the first and second male and female relay teams. For more information, call 540-5069 or 604-3800.

AYB receives new fields

Antioch—Village officials, school administrators, baseball program volunteers, and local businesses have combined efforts to create a high-quality girls softball field.

The overall seven-diamond program of improvements by Antioch Youth Baseball is in response to its growing summer baseball program and the need for higher quality playing areas.

Mike Perrone, President of AYB, said the baseball program continues to grow in popularity and many people make contributions to make it a strong youth program for girls and boys. The most recent example is the addition of new dugouts to field two at Antioch Upper Grade School.

"What we've done at AYB in recent years is to upgrade our fields," Perrone said. "AYB paid to have the entire infield resurfaced like a major league infield," he said. Also, pop-up safety bases were installed to reduce injuries to sliding ball players.

"Our goal was to make it a top-flight, girls softball diamond," he said of the Upper Grade School field used by 5- to 18-year-old girls.

The volunteers who run AYB have received assistance and participation from many groups in their effort to upgrade the field. For example, new dugouts are to be built with the financial and building materials assistance of True Value Hardware Stores, through its nationally-sponsored True Value Field of Dreams Program. Coca-Cola provided a score board, School District 34 provided a backstop, and Thelen Sand & Gravel provided some concrete.

Rose to lead State police chiefs

Mundelein—Mayor Marilyn Sindles announced at the July 28 Village Board meeting that professional law enforcement in Mundelein had been given new access to statewide law enforcement professionals.

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re has said, "In Ray Rose, we are blessed to have a man committed to professional law enforcement."

The approximately 1000 members of the Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police elected Chief Raymond J. Rose President for a one year term of service as the state's top professional law enforcement representative. The association is dedicated to professionalizing law enforcement service for local communities.

The Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police seeks "to advance the science and art of police administration and crime prevention, to develop and disseminate improved administration and technical practices and to promote their use in police work...."

"It's a good avenue to meet other (Police) Chiefs in Illinois," said Sheriff Del Re. Mundelein Chief Rose also identified that as a key benefit for the village and other county communities, especially for improving community policing practices used by professional law enforcement departments.

"Southern Illinois police chiefs have been doing community policing forever," Rose said. These contacts will allow "us to see what works for them in a smaller community and bring that up (to Lake County) and employ some of those tactics... and techniques that they're using."

Rose said that knowledge gained in metropolitan counties can also be shared with downstate police chiefs. The experience of northern Illinois county chiefs of police with putting crime reduction programs together to manage specific crime issues, such as a gang task force or a major crimes task force, can benefit law enforcement in downstate communities. Chief Rose expects to be very involved in that mutually supportive education process.

'Everything'(maybe) conjurs up our lifestyle

In an era when retailing is as much show business as merchandising and dining out is a quest for adventure rather than satisfying bodily needs, looking around the local environs, it's easy to say that we've arrived. Or we're arriving.

On one end of Lake County, fun seekers have their first glimpse of our very own (along with 59 other locations) Planet Hollywood. The official grand opening at Gurnee Mills, in a few weeks with a promise of real live Hollywood stars, eagerly is awaited by both the hungry and the adventuresome.

On the other end of the county, apparel blockbuster Saks 5th Ave. has announced a 50,000 square foot "new type suburban" store for a development in Highland Park that will cater to strictly local tastes. Saks executives figure milady in Lake County has different tastes than the smartly attired in Palm Springs or Dallas. Well, for sure!

Lake County's main street businesses can take a cue. Built-in fun is desirable for the shopping experience. For success in dispensing food, a zebra-striped room with mustard colored walls, and pink and teal table clothes—the decor for one Planet Hollywood room—won't hurt. We're not so sure about a near nude Sylvester Stallone mannikin, another feature of the new "out of this world" dining establishment.

Life hereabouts never is dull. Hang on for new adventures!

Party's punch taken from ballot

Political strategists and candidates for public office are entering a strange new world, an election ballot world devoid of the single party punch. The much maligned and just as oft heralded straight party vote as gone the way of the Edsel.

Illinois Republican leaders pushed elimination of the "party punch" in the belief that the requirement of marking for every ballot position is the path to parity in Democratic Cook County. State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills), who wears a second hat as county Democrat chairman, says Lake County politics will be changed "forever" when the first general election without the party circle takes place in 1998.

Link asserts that candidates for Lake County office will have to run on their own merits. Lake County Republicans won't be able "to hide" incompetent candidates on their ticket, Sen. Link reasons. The "drop off" factor where lesser offices are ignored by ticket splitters will be a thing of the past. Unquestionably, voters will be studying the entire ticket more closely. That certainly will benefit the election process.

Lake County Democrats still are smarting that their highly regarded candidate for County Clerk in 1994, Kathy Ryg, was buried in a blizzard of GOP straight tickets that cost them their only county-wide office at the time and propelled a Republican long-shot newcomer, Willard Helander, to victory. Other county offices up for election next year will be Sheriff, Treasurer and Regional Supt. of Schools.

Republicans counter Link that they don't have to apologize for anyone on their county ticket, in the past or the future. No one is arguing that the 1998 election, which officially gets underway after Labor Day, indeed, will be a much different contest.

Thistle crop abounds

Thistle seeds are taking flight as the noxious weed moves into its reproductive cycle after one of the best growing seasons in years. Due to economic constraints and, in some cases, advisories from the Dept. of Conservation, the Illinois Dept. of Transportation has drastically cut back highway right-of-way mowing operations. Some grass and weeds remain to provide food and cover for wildlife. Thistle patches and other undesirable weed growths thus are allowed to flourish. Official policy.

VIEWPOINT

Deerfield tolls cloud bigger issue

Pretty tricky, those toll-way folks. Reeling from a land purchase scandal and facing severe pressure to turn over budgetary management to the Illinois General Assembly, tollway moguls float a plan to eliminate tolls at the Deerfield Plaza, thereby igniting a red hot public debate that's a whole lot sexier than fiscal restraint.

Crafty public relations; a shrewd political ploy to hang a smoke screen over other problems facing the Illinois Tollway Authority.

Almost lost in the haze is a court imposed Dec. 15 deadline for the political appointed tollway bosses to explain why budgetary oversight should not be taken over by elected representatives in Springfield.

With considerable media help, frustrated motorists who regularly experience dreary waits of up to 20 minutes to clear the Deerfield bottleneck, are having a field day spouting off. The debate over eliminating the Deerfield toll is working like a charm. What about efforts to reign in the madcap tollway commissioners? Oh.

Tollway commissioners, though, might have shot themselves in the foot, or at least blown away a pinky, by admitting they can operate nicely without the $60,000 a day collected at Deerfield. This assertion amounts to a tacit admission that the Illinois Tollway system operates with an excessive rate structure. Critics long have complained that motorists pay high tolls to provide funds for building new tollways elsewhere. Illinois has a political version of a perpetual motion machine with the way the totally autonomous Tollway Authority is allowed to operate.

It is ironic that a General Assembly member leading the charge for state oversight lives virtually in the backyard of the much-maligned toll booth, State Rep. Lauren-Beth Gash (D-Deerfield). Gash wants to know where the 40 cents goes that she tosses in the hopper. That information would be nice to know. For everyone.

NEW NEIGHBOR?

Jack O'Malley, the mercurial

ex-Cook County state's attorney, has kicked off high level Republican speculation about a possible Lake County base of operations now that he has a private sector job in Milwaukee. He's said to be house hunting north of Lake-Cook Rd.

O'Malley dropped a hint that he might become a Milwaukee commuter instead of taking up residence in Wisconsin. Transfer the O'Malley household to pastoral Lake County. Makes political sense. The ambitious attorney could still keep tabs on Illinois politics and run for governor or U.S. senator.

CELE-BRITIES

This is the celebration season for Bill and Virginia Park, "poster partners" for the senior set. The Long Grove residents just observed their 59th wedding anniversary and now Bill is getting ready for his 90th birthday Sept. 9. Virginia, an accomplished journalist and published historian, turns 88 on Sept. 19. Upon their marriage, the Parks set up housekeeping in the dwelling that remains their home today. "We like it around here," joked Virginia. Bill set some kind of record for Lake County politics last spring when he ran for village president, believed to be the oldest mayoral candidate ever in the county.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Media overly tolerant

Hats off to staff reporter Spencer Schein for presenting both sides of the Wauconda Rodeo/Animal Rights issue. Having attended all three performances this year I can only say that the media in general has been much too tolerant of Steve Hindi and his group.

The activists who demonstrated at the rodeo were allowed to heckle and harass spectators throughout the performances using their bull horns to shout jeers containing sexual innuendos at the parents of small children and challenges of physical combat to those who showed disapproval.

The activists were also allowed to distribute the video "Bucking the Rodeo" in a plain white cover as spectators left each performance as an extension of their First Amendment right. Many who accepted this video did so not knowing what it contained or who was handing out the "free video."

When I was given permission to explain to the exiting crowd that the gift was from the activists hardly a

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Lake County political sage handed new assignment

Part of the rebirth of the Republican Assembly of Illinois, founded in 1984 by Chicago Talk Show host and retired lobbyist Tom Roeser, is the hiring of Charlie Johnston as executive director.

Charlie's assignment, as handed down by Roeser, will be to bind movement politics with philosophical principle. Charlie is well known in Lake County as a talk show host at WKRS. Way back when, he did a stint as managing editor of Lakeland Newspapers. Johnston knows Illinois politics like the back of his hand.

Wrong question

Some taxpayers in Libertyville High Dist. 128 say the school board is asking the wrong question about approving funds for a second school in Vernon Hills. They say the question should be about splitting the district so Vernon Hills can build a school to its own liking. Decision day is Nov. 4.

Churchill choice?

Party Lines learned that Illinois Speaker of the House Lee Daniels has asked State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa) to run as Secretary of State if current secretary, George Ryan, seeks other political aspirations in the upcoming 1998 elections. Ryan's name has been tossed around for governor if current governor Jim Edgar decides to run for the U.S. Senate.

While honored by the appeal, Churchill said he was surprised by the draft, but has not made any firm commitments or public announcements. Nevertheless, it seems Daniels does not want to give up his speakership.

Party Lines wonders if Daniels were to run for another office, does that leave the speaker seat open for Churchill, who as House Majority Leader is the state's second highest ranking Republican in the House?

Bertha's back?

"Don't count Bertha out." That forecast is stirring Democrats in Waukegan who want to regain a County Board seat lost when Jim Stanczak ousted the formidable Bertha Ogrin several years ago.

Ogrin, whose stance on open space and controlled growth is admired by voters in both parties, is getting involved in public affairs again after devoting herself to the care of her late husband during his extended illness.

Bob Sabonjian Jr., the self-employed photographer who speaks out on all sorts of issues, has all but officially announced his candidacy for Stanczak's seat. Could a rare Democratic primary battle be brewing for 1998?

Likes view ahead

State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills), who wears the dual hat of Lake County Democratic chairman, is not hiding his relish of the opportunity to campaign for four county offices next year with only two incumbents on the ticket.

"We're going to prove that Democratic gains of 1996 were no fluke," observed Link. Open offices include sheriff and county treasurer. Offices up for election now held by Republicans are County Clerk Willard Helander and Regional Supt. of Schools Ed Gonwa.

Correction

Here's how Party Lines saves you money: A fun evening at Mickey Finn's Brewery and Restaurant, Libertyville, benefiting Comptroller Loleta Didrickson's campaign coffers will cost $50 per person, not $200 as appeared in this column recently. Antonetta Simonian is taking reservations for the Sept. 16 affair at 680-3262.

Good memories

Friends and supporters are heart-broken that Warren Township Assessor Joe Dada bowed out of office, leaving affairs in disarray. Dada was highly regarded and recognized for public service. Regardless of what the future brings, the Dada family will be remembered fondly in Warren Township. Brother Sam, long since retired and living in Arkansas, was revered as Gurnee fire chief.

For many years, Sam was the best known fire chief in Lake County next to Rodney "Jim" Rockenbach of Grayslake, who rose to national prominence as a firefighting leader.

Non-updated info

Anyone who checks Lake Zurich's on-line home page on the Internet may come upon some interesting information. For instance, a look at the public works page shows David Talbott listed as public works director.

Talbott, however, resigned Nov. 15, 1996, and was replaced with Victor C. Ramirez, now the director of public works and engineering, this past April.

Did you know?

Americans create 50 percent of the world's waste, but make up only 5 percent of the world's population.

single video was distributed. The response from the activists as always was to launch personal attacks on those who oppose them.

The whole reason for freedom of speech is to allow all sides of any issue to be heard, not just bull from the loudest bull horn. It was comforting to know that the Wauconda Leader covered both sides of the issues more than just the bull.

Oh, to know area codes

In recent years, with cell phones, fax machines, beepers and other communication devices there has been an explosion of new area codes. In fact, this year alone there will be 14 new ones across North America and the Caribbean.

The Chicago area alone now has a total of six area codes: 312, 773, 847, 630, 708 and 815. Ohio has a total of seven: 614, 513, 937, 419, 216, 330 and 440 with plans to divide 614 some time soon. That will be four new ones since January 1996. Even in Wisconsin the 414 area code was divided on July 26 adding the new number 920.

I have many friends and family living from Connecticut to California. With the constant change in area codes I am spending many hours re-programming the directory on my speed dial phone. Almost every time I make a long distance call I hear that woman's lovely voice say, "I'm sorry, the number you have dialed now has a new area code." I have heard her voice so many times I think I am falling in love.

So, if you all will now excuse me, I think I will give my sister a call. Now, what is her area code, 299? No, I think it's 456. Maybe it is 614. No, it's 962. Oh forget it, I will just write her. I hope her zip code hasn't changed.

Sergio Posadas of Mundelein, owner of a cleaning service: What I like best about my town ... it is quiet and very friendly.

Posadas again: The secret to my success is ... be honest, always.

The two columns, "Neighbors" and "Sidelines," tell us a lot about the folks with whom we share this special place called Lake County. Here are various responses to the sentence, I want to be remembered as ... "a person who was genuine ... people would think of me and just smile ... a fair and caring person ... a good person ... a decent person ... a nice guy ... someone who cared about people ..."

Were I the subject of one of those profiles, I would be as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs — for fear I'd say something stupid.

Several years ago, after I had written a newspaper column that caught his attention, Bob Collins of WGN Radio called to chat with me about it, on the air.

Luckily, I had gone out for breakfast and "Uncle Bobby" couldn't reach me. Thank goodness, I thought later, because I probably would have said something dumb with millions of radio listeners tuned in.

However, I just can't resist answering a couple of the questions often posed in "Neighbors" and "Sidelines." For example: People who knew me in high school would say ... I was shy.

Nellessen again: People who knew me in high school would say ... I was shy.

Nellessen again: My most embarrassing moment was ... when I got married and went to take the garter off my wife, she had on a pair of my gym shoes.

I want to be remembered as ... Hey, I don't want to go!

FORTH: ACHS graduate experiences football, life down under

"Because all the players were all-stars, it was like taking 80 egos and throwing them into one melting pot," said Forth of the experience. "The atmosphere and intensity was almost like a Super Bowl."

"I'm glad I had a chance to play in it," he said. "Personally, I performed better than I thought I would because the talent levels" were so good on the other teams.

"They (Oregon) played an excellent game," said Forth.

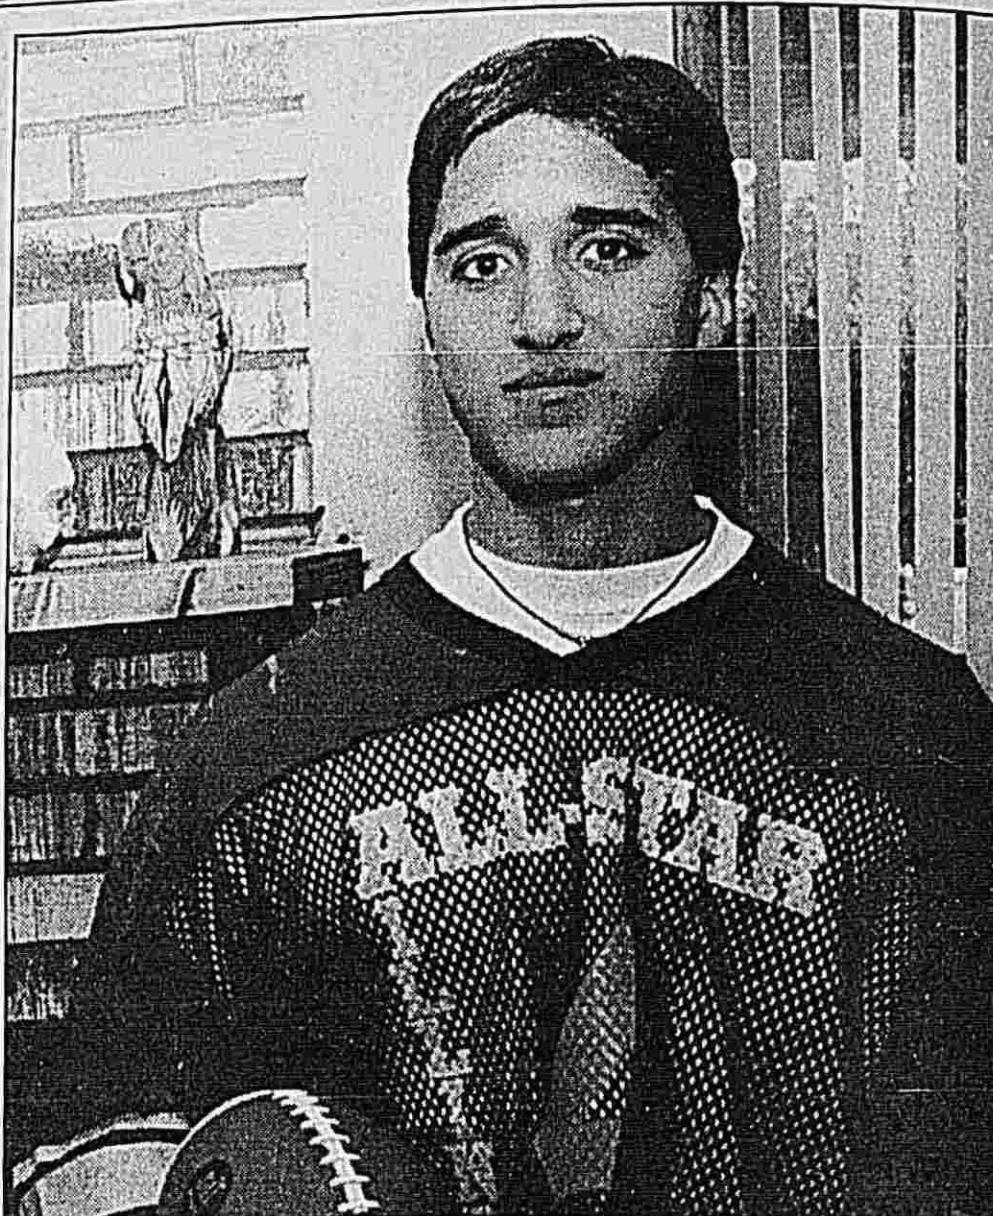

Forth is currently working out before the start of the UW-Whitewater season. His last high school game was in October of 1996, but his summer tour has given him a leg-up on the other players, as most had not played since November.

I train rather intensively during the off-season," Forth said. He hits the weight room and participates in track to keep him in shape for summer football tours like this one.

Upon his return to the United States, Forth reflected on his summer football tour, and noted that the 10-6 hard-fought victory over the Oregon team was much sweeter than the 64-6 romp over Australia.

Always the competitor.

Preserve receives grant for River trail

A $200,000 state grant was awarded to the Lake County Forest Preserves Des Plaines River (DPR) Trail project by the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources. The grant was announced by Forest Preserve President Robert M. Buhai at the Board of Commissioners meeting.

As part of the state's 1997 Illinois Bike Path Project, the grant will help fund construction of 1.28 miles of trail along the southern section of the DPR Trail from Buckley Road (Route 137) to River Road in Libertyville. This new section of DPR trail will cross the Des Plaines River and travel through the District's newest Forest Preserve, Independence Grove to River Road. The trail also will connect to several interior trails under construction at Independence Grove and will link with 12 existing miles of the DPR trail south of Buckley Road.

The Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources grant programs are part of ongoing efforts to enhance outdoor recreation and bike opportunities statewide.

The 5,108 acre Des Plaines River Greenway, a chain of Forest Preserves that stretches from the Illinoinois-Wisconsin state line to Cook County, preserves 80 percent of the river's banks and includes a 10 mile northern section and a 12 mile southern section of the multi-purpose DPR Trail. A focus of Lake County Forest Preserve nature preservation and restoration efforts, the Greenway includes several dedicated Illinois Nature Preserves and is also home to many endangered and threatened species of plants and animals.

The northern section of the trail currently runs 10 miles through Van Patten Woods, Wadsworth Savanna, the Wetlands Demonstration Project, and Gurnee Woods Forest Preserves. The trail currently ends at Old Grand Ave. in Gurnee.

The southern section currently runs 12 miles from Buckley Road (Route 137) south through Old School, MacArthur Woods, Wright Woods and Half Day Forest Preserves and currently ends at Olde Half Day Road near Lincolnshire.

When the Des Plaines River Trail is complete, bridges and underpasses will allow trail users to wind their way, nonstop for 33 miles through some of Lake County's prime natural areas without crossing any major roads.

A $1.9 million state Congestion, Mitigation and Air Quality Grant (CMAQ), awarded to the Forest Preserve District by IDOT in 1993, also will help fund the trail connections and reimburse up to 80 percent of project costs.

For FREE trail maps, newsletters and other information, call the Forest Preserve General offices at 367-6640.

LaCASA needs volunteers to serve as advocates

Without proper support and guidance, rape victims and other sexual assault survivors may suffer further traumatization and indignities during medical examinations and police questioning.

The Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault is currently accepting applications from area residents interested in training to serve as a Medical and Police Advocate to respond to Lake County hospitals and police departments when a sexual assault survivor is present. LaCASA volunteer advocates provide crucial support, crisis intervention and information on-site and during follow-up to the survivor and their loved ones.

Applications will be accepted thru Sept. 5 for LaCASA's 60 hour volunteer training, which begins Sept. 22 at the new LaCASA/Richard Zacharias Center.

Wallace nominated for national award

Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re is delighted to announce the nomination of Sheriff's Police Investigator Portia Wallace, an 18-year veteran of the Lake County Sheriff's Police, as a finalist of the Life Savers "Take a Bigger Role" Awards program. The Life Savers Co. has sponsored, for the second year, a program which seeks to honor persons who despite busy careers and demands on their time, manage to find the time to do exceptional work for the benefit of others and their communities. The traits of integrity, generosity and dedication are just a few which exemplify the Role Models being honored.

Detective Wallace has been assigned to the Criminal Investigations Division for the past 17 years principally in the Juvenile Section however her experiences and expertise extend to all levels of criminal investigations. Early in her police career she noticed a lack of support services and information available for victims of sexual abuse and for child victims of all types of crimes. She was instrumental in establishing a sexual abuse hotline and advocacy program which became LaCASA (Lake County Council on Sexual Abuse). "There was such a need for this type of assistance for children and even adult victims of sexual abuse that we just stepped out on faith and made this happen."

She has been on the founding committees of several Lake County Programs, all geared toward serving as support systems and mentoring for children and for adult victims of sex offenses. Emphasis is placed on teaching them to overcome adversities and motivate them to "believe in themselves and their abilities to have a successful lifestyle. She has also spoken to many junior and senior high school students about sexual assault and prevention and what to do if it happens to them. She also represents the Juvenile Officers Assn. and the Lake County Sheriff in the Lake County Children's Advocacy Center. Additionally, she's a United Way volunteer, and is presently on the Board of Directors on the Lake County Big Brothers/Big Sisters, which she has been a member of since 1984. BBBS is a mentoring program for children from single parent homes. Other honors come from the Chicago Crime Commission, North Shore Magazine Top Ten Volunteers of the Year, and Illinois Women in Law Enforcement.

Detective Wallace was nominated for the Life Savers Award by the staff of Zion Benton Township High School early in 1997. This nomination awards, $1,000 donation from Life Savers to the charity of Wallace's choice, and she has no shortage of options.

The 20 1997 finalists are nine men and eleven women represent 17 states, including Alaska. All of the Role Models will be traveling to Washington DC on Sept. 17 to the awards ceremony at the National Press Club. The National Role Model will receive a check for $10,000 to be donated to the charity of his/her choice.

When asked about how she budgets her time and arranges her schedule to accommodate all of her responsibilities, she says "I don't think about how much I do, I just do, and I know that my living has not been in vain. I do this because I want to."

"Please allow me to express my sincere congratulations to Detective Wallace and indeed to the other 19 for their selfless dedication to their communities, their families and for truly exemplifying the love and sense of responsibility they must feel toward their fellow man," says Sheriff DelRe.

Tune into radio broadcasting course at College of Lake County

Have you ever wondered what goes on in a radio broadcasting booth? Find out in Introduction to Radio Broadcasting (GSK 054-001), a continuing education course offered by the College of Lake County in the fall. The four week class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays beginning Sept. 4 at the Technology Campus in Grayslake.

The course will be taught by Rodney Finley, who has worked for 10 years in broadcasting and is the manager of CLC's WCLC radio station. He holds a bachelor's degree in radio/television/journalism from Southern Illinois University and a master's degree from Northern Illinois University. He has held several positions, including producer and on-air-talent personality for radio stations WGCI, WVON and WTMX.

During the four week class, students will learn about broadcasting regulations and how to produce newscasts, commercials and other radio productions. Students will also learn how to write news for radio, conduct interviews and obtain an FCC license.

For information, call the continuing education office at 543-2022.

Cook up a good career at CLC

Culinary arts courses preparing students for careers as professional chefs will be offered at the College of Lake County in the fall semester. Courses in Principles of Food Preparation I and II (FSM III and FSM 170) and Culinary Arts I and II (FSM 112 and FSM 171) will begin the week of Aug. 25 at CLC's Grayslake Campus and other extension sites in Lake County.

Course will be offered days and evenings and taught by CLC faculty members and professional chefs. Through classroom instruction and laboratory experience, students will learn basic professional cooking and baking skills. They will also learn professional techniques for handling kitchen knives, presentation methods and kitchen organization skills.

An information session will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Aug. 18 in the Willow Room. For information, call 543-2823 or 543-2515.

No community service

The boy scouts claim to be serving our community, and should be open to all boys who want to join. One of the things they promote is to be honest, yet when one boy asked to join, he was honest and said he did not believe in any mythical or false gods. He was not allowed to join. He could have lied about it like many others do who say they believe in a god, yet they don't know who or what or if there really is a god. It seems that the Boy Scouts are a private club and should not be getting public funds. They aren't doing a community service by barring some.

Who's afraid?

I want to know if people are afraid to be in the dark. It's 11:45 p.m. and my neighbor just turned on three garage lights, two spotlights, and every light in their house. This goes on every night. Are they afraid of the dark?

Round Lake

'Uglifying' Round Lake

Commonwealth Edison's contribution to beautifying the gateway to the Round Lake Area is four huge electrical transmission poles at Rollins Road and Route 83. These monstrosities were added to a string of transmission towers already there. You have recklessly stepped on our faces at a time when we're trying to improve our image. There is no excuse for uglifying this intersection. What hurts is, you know better. You should have spent what money it took to hide them. Little wonder you have been assessed numerous fines by the government for operating sometimes carelessly your nuclear electrical generating plants in Illinois.

Grayslake

It's our dough

Grayslake citizens will never accept private companies moving into a civic center which is on public land and selling their services. Gurnee goes about it by working hard to get a private health club built between Route 41 and Green Bay Road. Then again, why have Gurnee folks rejected overwhelmingly in referendum spending money for a civic center? Gurnee people are not poor. How can Grayslake say it will cost us nothing in taxes? We're pulling $11 million out of the bank for this so-called civic center. This money could go for lowering taxes or maybe my water bill. It's our dough!

Grayslake

What about outcome?

I want to know why the Roy Gundelach drunk boating charge outcome hasn't been in the paper. Everything was hush-hush. We're paying his salary and I want to know the outcome.

Antioch

Editor's Note: Roy Gundelach's hearing was rescheduled until August 28.

It's about time

This is to congratulate the police in Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Heights and Park for hassling the teenagers. Somebody has to get after them. Evidently their parents are too lazy or don't care if they're out after curfew. It's time somebody tried to control them.

Coverage lacking

I'm calling about the lack of coverage for Minneola's Fourth of July fireworks display. I was disappointed to find no coverage in the July 10 issue. The only mention I found was in Lipservice, when a caller congratulated Fox Lake for a great job. I'd like to correct this caller since the town of Fox Lake didn't have anything to do with the display itself. Thanks go to Pete Jakstas and his crew at the Minneola, who donated their time and barges to present the display. Thanks again, Pete, for another fantastic display. We can't wait until next year!

Parents, do your jobs

I'm calling in response to the July 24 edition about solving crimes in Round Lake Park. Basically, if parents were to take more responsibility for their children as teenagers, we do have a problem with gangs. I tip my hat to the police department of Round Lake, and the neighboring communities, for their efforts to control this problem. As it stands, parents, take care of your children and stop worrying about what the police are doing and support them a little better.

Please fix road

I'm from Ingleside and I'm calling about the 1.6 miles west of Route 12, also known as Big Hollow Road. I think someone ought to fix the potholes and do something with the road. It's messing up my struts and alignment on my car. It's been bad for three years or more.

Ingleside

Take his advice...

If I were a close advisor to Gov. Jim Edgar, I would tell him not to run for any office next year, that he should retire from public service. I believe the bribery case in Springfield has tainted the Edgar administration. If the press were to delve into all the contributors to the Edgar campaign over the years, they would see contributions to the Edgar campaign fund will and has resulted in contracts to the people who give him money. Things are catching up with him, so he should retire.

Fill empty buildings

What's up with Wauconda? Why are they allowing builders to build new buildings and businesses on vacant land when there are so many buildings that are abandoned and empty that they can use?

Torn and confused

As a resident of Fox Lake, I am torn between confusion and outrage at Fox Lake Waterway Agency wanting to promote Chain O' Lakes. First, with all the documented political in-fighting, personnel problems, and the admitted lack of leadership, the agency should straighten its house before doing other private and area institutions jobs, such as the Chamber of Commerce. Secondly, Bob Kirchner, who is in charge of water quality, should be concerned with water quality, not getting more boats on the chain. From the EPA studies, the chain has three times as many boats as recommended. Thirdly, who knows what the current web site is? Don't be fooled by technology, Waterway Agency!

Free country

This is in response to "What are you thinking." Who are you to tell people how many children they should have? The last time I checked this was a free country. Yes, there is a high divorce rate but you have to leave the decision with the people themselves. You should probably keep your mouth shut.

High pay

Is it just me or is anyone else troubled by the waterway agency in Fox Lake? Can they begin to justify their high salaries. Can they begin to justify their many decisions that need to either be reversed or projects that need to be done over and over again. Also, shouldn't we examine who is on the waterway agency payroll and see if the word cronyism comes to mind. Just because it has been that way for a long time and has been accepted doesn't make it right. Do the words "Operation Silver Shovel" frighten any of these people? This is taxpayer money we are talking about, so the problems with the agency should not be ignored by the general public.

Championship team

I just got done reading the Mundelein News. On page A9 you have story about a 10-year-old team winning the championship over Libertyville. I don't know why you didn't have Mundelein's side of the story since they won. The coach of the Mundelein team lives in Mundelein. It sure would have been a nice touch to give these kids a pat on the back.

Free fee

I am one from the silent majority in Grayslake. I am very disturbed when the village and the park district make plans to go into business for profit in order to pay for their programs. We have a beautiful lake in which to swim yet they want to install a fancy aquatic center and charge a hefty fee to get in. In the proposed civic center the village is going to rent space to other businesses included a hospital and a health club then have a professional management company to run it. It is one thing to be supportive of businesses in the community, but it is another thing to build these things on public property and continue to make money on them. This is wrong and is not a legitimate function of government no matter who else is doing it. They are watching Grayslake to see if we can pull it off. Did we elect leaders with principles? Can't they see the conflict of have a captive crowd and the separation of government and businesses? Let the businesses build for themselves on their own property and compete. They will survive if they are good enough. I am afraid I and my neighbors will have to reject the $12 million proposal for these "free" facilities.

Tax burden

The recent news that the Lake Villa board has approved a new Cedar Crossing subdivision for 290 homes begs a question. Who is going to pay for the schools? The Antioch business manager should tell the board there is no room. The Lake Villa board should know this already. They should first pass a tax increase referendum before approving the homes. They are simply depending on the overburdened existing taxpayer. As it is, local board and the school districts have no incentive to keep taxes frozen. By increasing a problem they are asking the taxpayer to bail them out when crunch time comes at no cost to themselves or their bureaucracy.

Population control

I'm calling to answer the person who was questioning having three or more children. If people what to have that many children and they can afford it financially then more power to them. You must not like children very much.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Hot trend: Going home

Working at home is a concept that is growing in popularity. In 1993, experts estimated that nearly 10 million Americans were working at home. Today that number has grown to more than 21 million.

Breakthroughs in technology, changes in the kind of work that many Americans are doing and the desire to lower costs of doing business are driving this trend. Today's technology allows us to communicate with co-workers in multiple locations, create, copy and send documents and maintain close contact with our customers via the phone line. Home, for many workers, is where the action is.

Some folks believe that people who work at home are really just loafing. A few probably are, but I can tell you from experience that my home office is my most productive location. I can completely isolate myself and get after it. If I'm pushing a project deadline, I want to work at home.

A great place for business

Starting a small business at home adds a large percentage to the growing numbers of home-based workers. It is a solid, proven concept with many advantages. For example, starting at home requires less initial capital. It certainly can be more convenient and usually entails less risk. Monthly operating expenses are lower and your work schedule can be very flexible.

While some businesses are easier than others to start at home, creative entrepreneurs are starting all types. I've seen manufacturers, wholesalers, construction, medical services, network marketers, business services and even retailers who are successful at home.

While starting at home can be a good strategy, many home-based businesses fail early into the process. If you can avoid the most common mistakes, you can certainly improve your odds of success. Here are five mistakes you won't want to make.

Common mistakes to avoid Mistake No. 1—Leaping before you look. The most common error we've seen owners make is jumping right into business without thinking about the consequences.

The solution for this problem is to create a plan before you decide to start the new business. Writing a simple, but complete business plan will help you gather facts before starting and operating your business.

Mistake No. 2—Leaving a great job to start a good business. I've watched several folks walk away from a terrific job with outstanding benefits. Within months they begin to realize just how they gave up for their independence.

A practical solution is to begin on a part-time basis. When the business is generating a good income, leave your present job.

Mistake No. 3—Not having enough money. The best solution for this mistake is also good planning. Don't spend your hard-earned savings until you've thoroughly investigated the start-up and operating costs.

To be certain you have enough

Best friends to best business partners

Renee Brauer and Francine Ginsberg have found that a good friendship can be turned into a good partnership, especially when fate lends a hand.

They had been friends since childhood, but after marriage they moved away from one another and lost contact. Then four years ago, Renee and her husband were choosing a lot for their new home only to discover that two lots away, Francine and her husband were doing the same thing.

They became neighbors and the rest is business history with their successful commercial endeavor, Bragin's Vertical Blind Factory, a natural follow-up.

At Bragin's, clients can purchase custom fabric, vertical and name brand horizontal blinds, as well as decorator window toppers, valances, bedspreads, pillows, tablecloths and more, at wholesale prices.

Vertical blinds are made on the premises and other window treatments carry well-known names such as Hunter Douglas, Graver, Lavelour, Del Mar and Fashion Tech.

A talent and interest in art and experience in interior design has led to offering their customers, especially those who have a new home and don't know where or how to begin, expert decorating advice filled with many original ideas.

With over 4,000 patterns to offer, vertical fabric blinds that are in stock, are often available immediately. Horizontal fabric blinds might take three to five days, and other custom orders up to a week for delivery.

"Our well-trained staff is extremely customer oriented, and our main goal is to please those customers," said Renee.

Bragin's also offers home shopping, wherein samples are brought right to the home for comfortable and relaxed perusal.

Bragin's Vertical Blind Factory has two locations, in Schaumburg, and their new location at 6409 Grand Ave., in Gurnee.

Bragin's hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information, or to make an appointment, call 856-8000 in Gurnee, and in Schaumburg, 781-1100.

Ameritech files FCC slamming complaints

Tens of thousands of consumer and business phone customers in five Midwest states have been slammed by AT&T and MCI over the past year, according to complaints Ameritech filed with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The filings charge that the companies were responsible for 33,940 slamming complaints from customers between July, 1996 and June, 1997. Complaints against AT&T and MCI accounted for 48 percent of the 71,033 slamming complaints Ameritech received over that period. Slamming is the practice of switching a customer's phone service provider without permission.

"Slamming is an illegal, anti-competitive and anti-consumer practice—it is a direct assault on consumer choice," said Kelly Welsh, executive vice president and general counsel for Ameritech. "Our hope is that the FCC will act quickly on our filings, so that consumers and businesses will be better protected from slamming. Not only is slamming continuing in long distance, it's spreading to the local side of the market, with AT&T and MCI leading the way."

According to Ameritech's filings AT&T and MCI accounted for 83 percent of all local toll slamming complaints since February, when Ameritech began tracking local toll slams. Out of a total of 14,741 slamming complaints, AT&T and MCI accounted for 9,334 and 2,888, respectively.

The anti-competitive nature of slamming has clearly been an issue for the FCC. In a recent statement, the Commission said, "Slamming distorts telecommunications markets by enabling companies engaged in misleading marketing practices to increase their customer bases, revenues and profitability through illegal means."

In its filings, Ameritech asked the FCC to investigate AT&T and MCI's procedures for switching a customer's long distance or local toll provider. Ameritech also charges the companies with unauthorized changes in customers' local toll service when submitting authorized changes in long distance service.

"AT&T and MCI have a track record on slamming," said Welsh. "Last year, both companies reached settlements with the FCC over slamming complaints. While positive steps toward eliminating slamming, those settlements didn't specifically cover local toll service and, based on customer complaints, haven't stopped AT&T and MCI from slamming."

Ameritech began tracking slamming complaints last year because of the growing number of complaints from consumers.

During the last six months of 1996, Ameritech recorded a total of 25,285 slamming complaints for both long distance and local toll service. That number rose by 81 percent during the first six months of 1997 to 45,748.

Women's Assn. awards scholarships

The newly formed Tri-Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Assn. has awarded two scholarships.

Rebecca Simon, a graduate of Grant High School was awarded $500. Brianne Fisher, a graduate of Warren Twp. High School received an award of $500 plus $140 given in memory of a former member, Evelyn Rose.

These scholarships are made possible through the efforts of chapter members participation in fund raisers held throughout the year. Selection are made from students who live in Lake County and attend county schools.

First Midwest opens 'Bank of the Future'

David J. DeRue, president of First Midwest Bank's Grayslake Banking Center, announced the opening of their second full-service office located at 530 E. Washington St. in Grayslake. The location, which showcases First Midwest's unique "Bank of the Future" floor plan, covers over 4,500 square foot and is complete with five drive-up windows including a commercial lane and a 24-hour automatic teller machine (ATM). This new facility joins the bank's current office which is located at 41 N. Lake St.

"This is a long anticipated opening for us!" stated DeRue, a 25 year veteran of First Midwest. "We have obtained and retained clients with the commitment of this spectacular new facility and the accessibility and convenience it provides. The excitement that has been generated throughout the construction process and now for the opening has been tremendous."

Designed around meeting a client's complete banking needs, this office allows individuals to move through their banking activities quickly and easily. Within the personal area, clients can now more fully participate in selecting the services required to meet a particular financial need. And, knowing the importance of confidentiality when conducting such personal business, the new personal banking area provides increased privacy, yet in a relaxed atmosphere. Equipped with state-of-the-art technology and First Midwest Bank's professional staff, this bank is designed to handle a wide array of client activities from teller services to personal, mortgage and commercial related banking. The staff, headed up by Maribeth Mitchell, branch manager, will utilize the new facility to better educate their clients about products and current promotions.

To celebrate the new office a grand opening celebration will be held Aug. 7, 8 and 9.

Included in the festivities will be a contest in which residents will be invited into the bank for a chance to win $500 in cash or its cash equivalent in First Midwest Bancorp, Inc. (FMBI) stock—or thousands of other prizes.

CLC board approves consulting contract

The College of Lake County board of trustees approved a $1.8 million consulting services contract with Coopers and Lybrand of Arlington Heights, to plan and implement installation of an administrative computer software system at the college.

This action follows the board's approval at the June meeting to purchase software for the system from PeopleSoft Corp. of Pleasanton, Calif.

The PeopleSoft system will provide the latest computer technology for accessing student, financial and human resources information.

The system will improve efficiency, reduce operating costs and facilitate the year 2000 transition of the college's computer system.

"The new system will allow the college to stay current with technology and provide better service to our students, employees and the community, while saving money," said Richard Anderson, chairman of the CLC board of trustees.

The college estimates that the system will save approximately $640,000 during a 10-year period.

In a separate action, the board approved more than $333,000 to purchase a server, utilities, query tools and a database management system required to operate and support the PeopleSoft system.

The server will be purchased from G.E. Capital Information Technology Solutions of Bensenville, Ill., for $81,499; utilities from Syncsort of Flagtown, N.J., for $15,500; query tools from PeopleSoft, for $27,600; and database software from Sybase, Inc., of Emeryville, Calif., for $208,900.

money, put together a cash budget and income projections for the first three years of your business. Always include some extra money for unknowns.

Mistake No. 4.—Underestimating your ignorance. No one knows everything about running a business before actually starting one. However, not knowing enough can be very costly.

You must at least understand a few basics. Learn what records the IRS requires. Know zoning and legal requirements before you start.

Study customer targeting strategies and how to promote your business.

Mistake No. 5—Lacking the self-discipline to work at home. Motivating yourself to work at home is not easy. If you are going to be successful in a home-based business, you must treat it as any other work experience. When you go to the "office," you've gone to work.

Discover hidden savings account in home equity

By DAN FISHER

Gone are the days of throwing away money on rent. These are the days of taking pride in ownership, which goes along with owning a home. More importantly, these are the days of building equity and paying yourself with every mortgage payment. Every day I talk with someone who owns a home. For many, buying a first home was one of their most exhilarating financial decisions they ever made. It was also probably the smartest financial move they have ever made. You may have remembered a loan officer mention that by over-paying $100 dollars a month, your mortgage will be reduced from 30 to 23 years, or even less. Wow! You think to yourself, that would be great, I'll be 50 some years old and have no mortgage to pay! Even if those "new homebuyer resolutions" were never carried out, some time has passed and you now have that extra perk that goes along with owning equity. Now, the question is "What do I do with the equity that I have, even if it is only a little amount?"

Well, there are really a number of things you can do with equity. Here are some of the ways to handle your equity, from the newly formed family to the golden yearned couple: First, you can leave your equity alone. That equity, however, earns nothing. Even a passbook savings account earns more (2 to 3 percent nowadays). With that, the only good news is that you will probably earn an average of 3 percent (or more) per year, just by an increase in your home's value, which, of course, is not a guarantee. Or, you can tap into that hidden savings account (your equity), which is currently earning 0 percent and do some remarkable things.

For example, you can use it for home improvements. In so doing, you improve your standard of living and the value of your home—thus keeping the valuable equity you had in the first place. Or, if you have some credit card debt or other non-tax-deductible debt you possibly can save money on a monthly basis by paying them off with your wonderful hidden savings account. Maybe you could do both with your equity: home improvements and credit card debt reduction. Equity can be a powerful tool when used. In general, you can really use your equity for just about anything, from paying taxes, funding college education, vacationing, and the list goes on and on. You can probably think of some way to put your equity to good use.

Now that the possibilities of home equity have been brought in light, what do those who are tapped out of equity, or have credit problems, or do not feel we have high enough income for an equity loan, or just plain have existing high interest equity loans? Well, there is an answer. There are mortgage companies which exist exclusively to help home-owners help themselves, even with the financial problems that come with living in this ever changing world. Buying your home was probably the single most important financial decision you ever made. Putting your homes equity to good use may be the second most important financial decision.

PET OF THE WEEK

"BILLY"

"BILLY" is a young, one year old male labrador mix. This big sweet boy has a sturdy build, gentle face, and a soft short cream colored coat with rich, warm buff highlights. This very handsome boy is attentive and affectionate. True to his mostly labrador nature, Billy has the outstanding qualities most people want in a family pet. He is people-oriented, and playful without being hyper. He is also smart and very trainable. Labs are great dogs for kids and they love with a loyalty and enthusiasm that has endeared them to dog-lovers for generations. Naturally protective without aggression, Billy will make an exceptional addition to your family. He's been waiting for a home in cage 23 since 10/95. ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING AND OBEDIENCE TRAINING, WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. CRATING IS RECOMMENDED WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY FOR THE FIRST YEAR IF NEEDED.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow-up care, and much more.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.

BELLO The name is Italian for beautiful and this pedigreed, registered Blue Merle Australian Heeler is a real find! He's a young dog, and was given up by his owner simply because the owner was forced to move into very small city quarters. Bello is energetic and could not be happy in a tiny apartment. He is very intelligent, quick to learn and very anxious to please. This fellow is a real find!

The Assisi Animals Foundation is currently getting ready for its "Gargantuan Garage Sale" on September 13 at the McHenry County Fairgrounds in Woodstock, IL. For information on donating items (household, garden, kitchen items, tools, toys, holiday items, crafts, small appliances in working order...please call chairperson Mrs. Maze at 847-497-3965. Your donations will help the animals and don't forget to come to shop for real bargains!

Q: What is the average size litter for dogs? Cats? What problems can occur during labor, when do we need to call a vet, or should the animal be checked during its pregnancy?

A: Litter size can vary greatly on breed, age and the number of litters a pet has had. We do recommend that your pet get examined by a veterinarian before breeding. We need to discuss nutrition changes you need to make before the heat cycle occurs. I suggest another physical and possibly a vaginal smear at the time of breeding to make sure breeding is timed correctly. This is also the time we would test breeding dogs for Brucellosis. At 45 days post-breeding most DVMs would like to examine dogs or cats to see if fetuses are present in the uterus. Sometimes a radiograph is needed at the time of this exam to see how many fetuses to expect so you know when whelping has finished later. I like to show my clients a videotape about whelping if they have never been through whelping before on their own during this visit. Whelping usually occurs from 61-66 days after breeding. Most DVMs prefer to see the new mother and babies within 24 hours of whelping. An animal doctor needs to check for cleft palates, hernias, incomplete closure of the skull, or other birth defects; the mother may need an oxytocin injection to help the uterus push out any waste and help the milk flow.

Q: How do you prevent a dog from being gaseous? Is this caused by diet, and is there any medication I can give him?

- Signed Gasp.

A: Too much gas should be a warning sign something is not working well with your pet's intestine. There may be a problem with diet, but it could just as well be a digestion or absorption problem that has nothing to do with the diet, or everything to do with the diet. Sometimes a diet change is needed, and sometimes different medications will help. Although people often take pets passing gas as a joking matter, it can indicate a serious problem that your DVM will need to diagnose and treat.
